Life—an adventure
Pouring out beauty
Like the reflection of light
On wet leaves shiny with dew.
It is fresh, new, exhilarating
Like gracefully invading snow—
Awesome, invigorating.

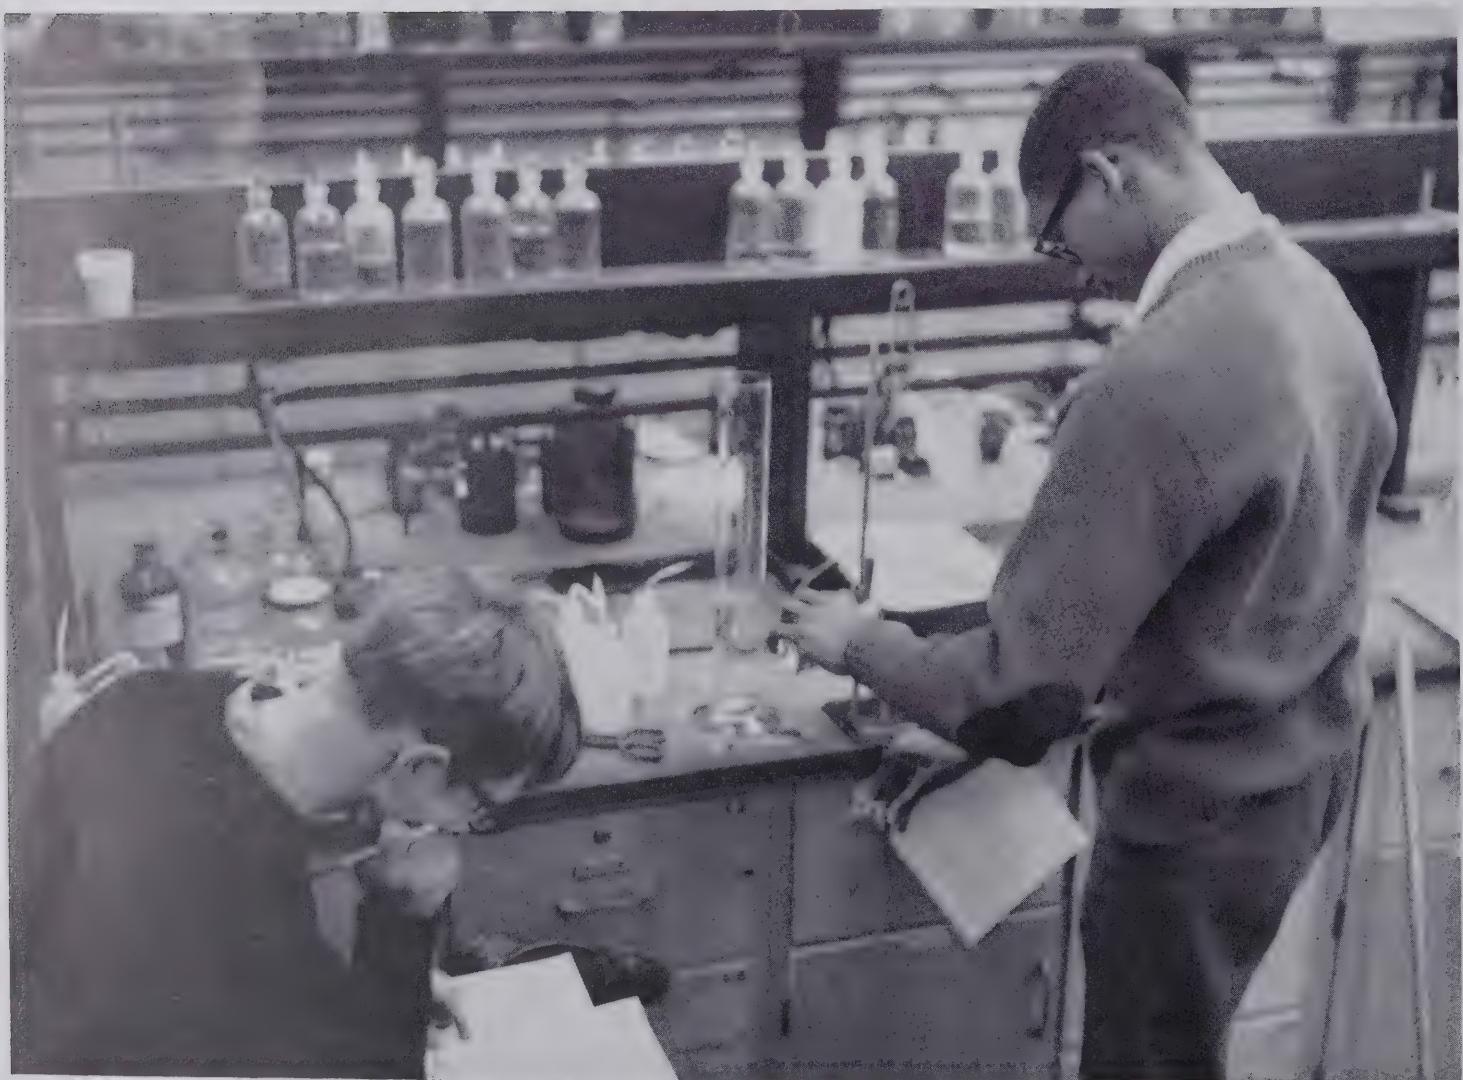

Last strains of the Alma Mater
Wake tears, smiles, inward glances.
School spirit emerges, as a disjointed body
Flows into rhythm,
Strengthening, victorious, unrelinquishing.
Competition, disguised as our enemy,
Works as our friend,
Ever leading us into the paths
Of accomplishment.

Working, striving, marching onward,
Incentive stimulates motives.
Wisdom, our eternal friend, stays by our side
As we face the new world.
Products of creative, brilliant minds,
Different, beautiful in a novel way,
Sketch a veil of hope,
Billowing majestically in the winds of progress.

Lost in a maze of faces
Desperately searching for identity,
Spirals of uncertainty and doubt
Descend upon youth.
Yet, individuality is never smothered—
One vibrant color
Stroked into the picture of unity.
Youth awakes, finds himself.

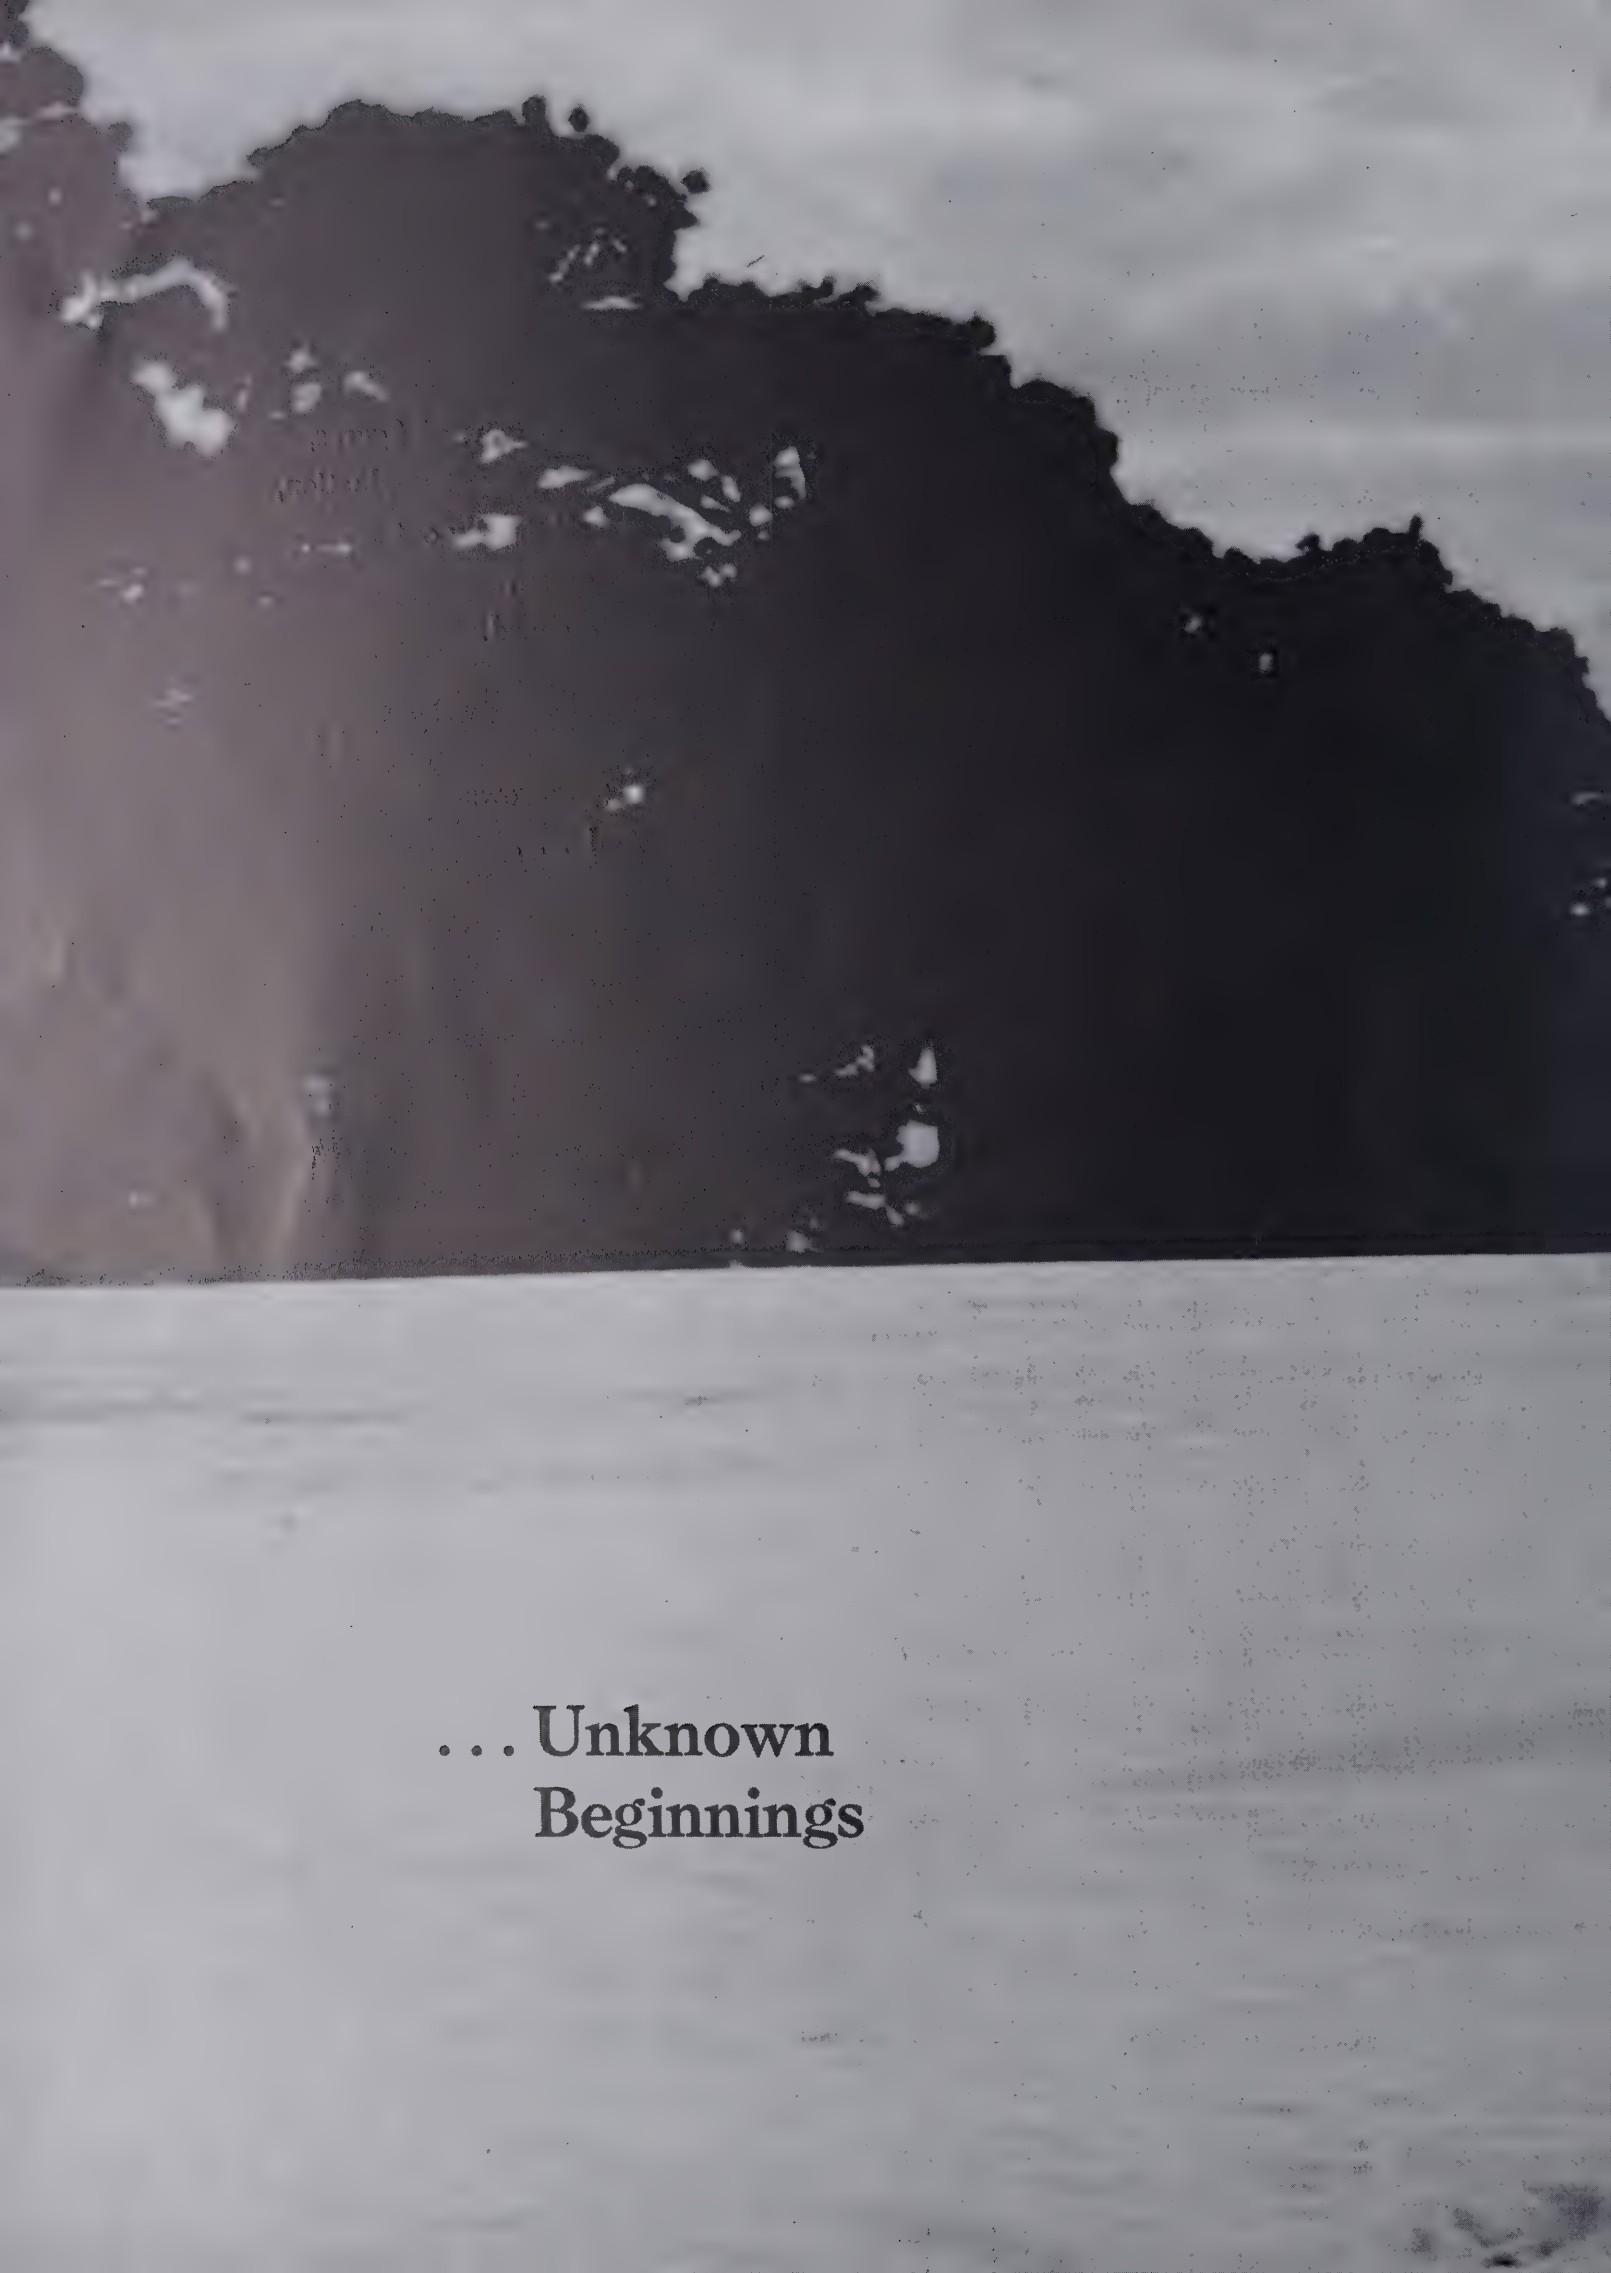

Masses of gowned figures,
Remembering at graduation,
Reach timidly out
To dream
Of life ahead.

One crystal year, a moment shattered,
Crushed, and blended into new tomorrows
And . . .

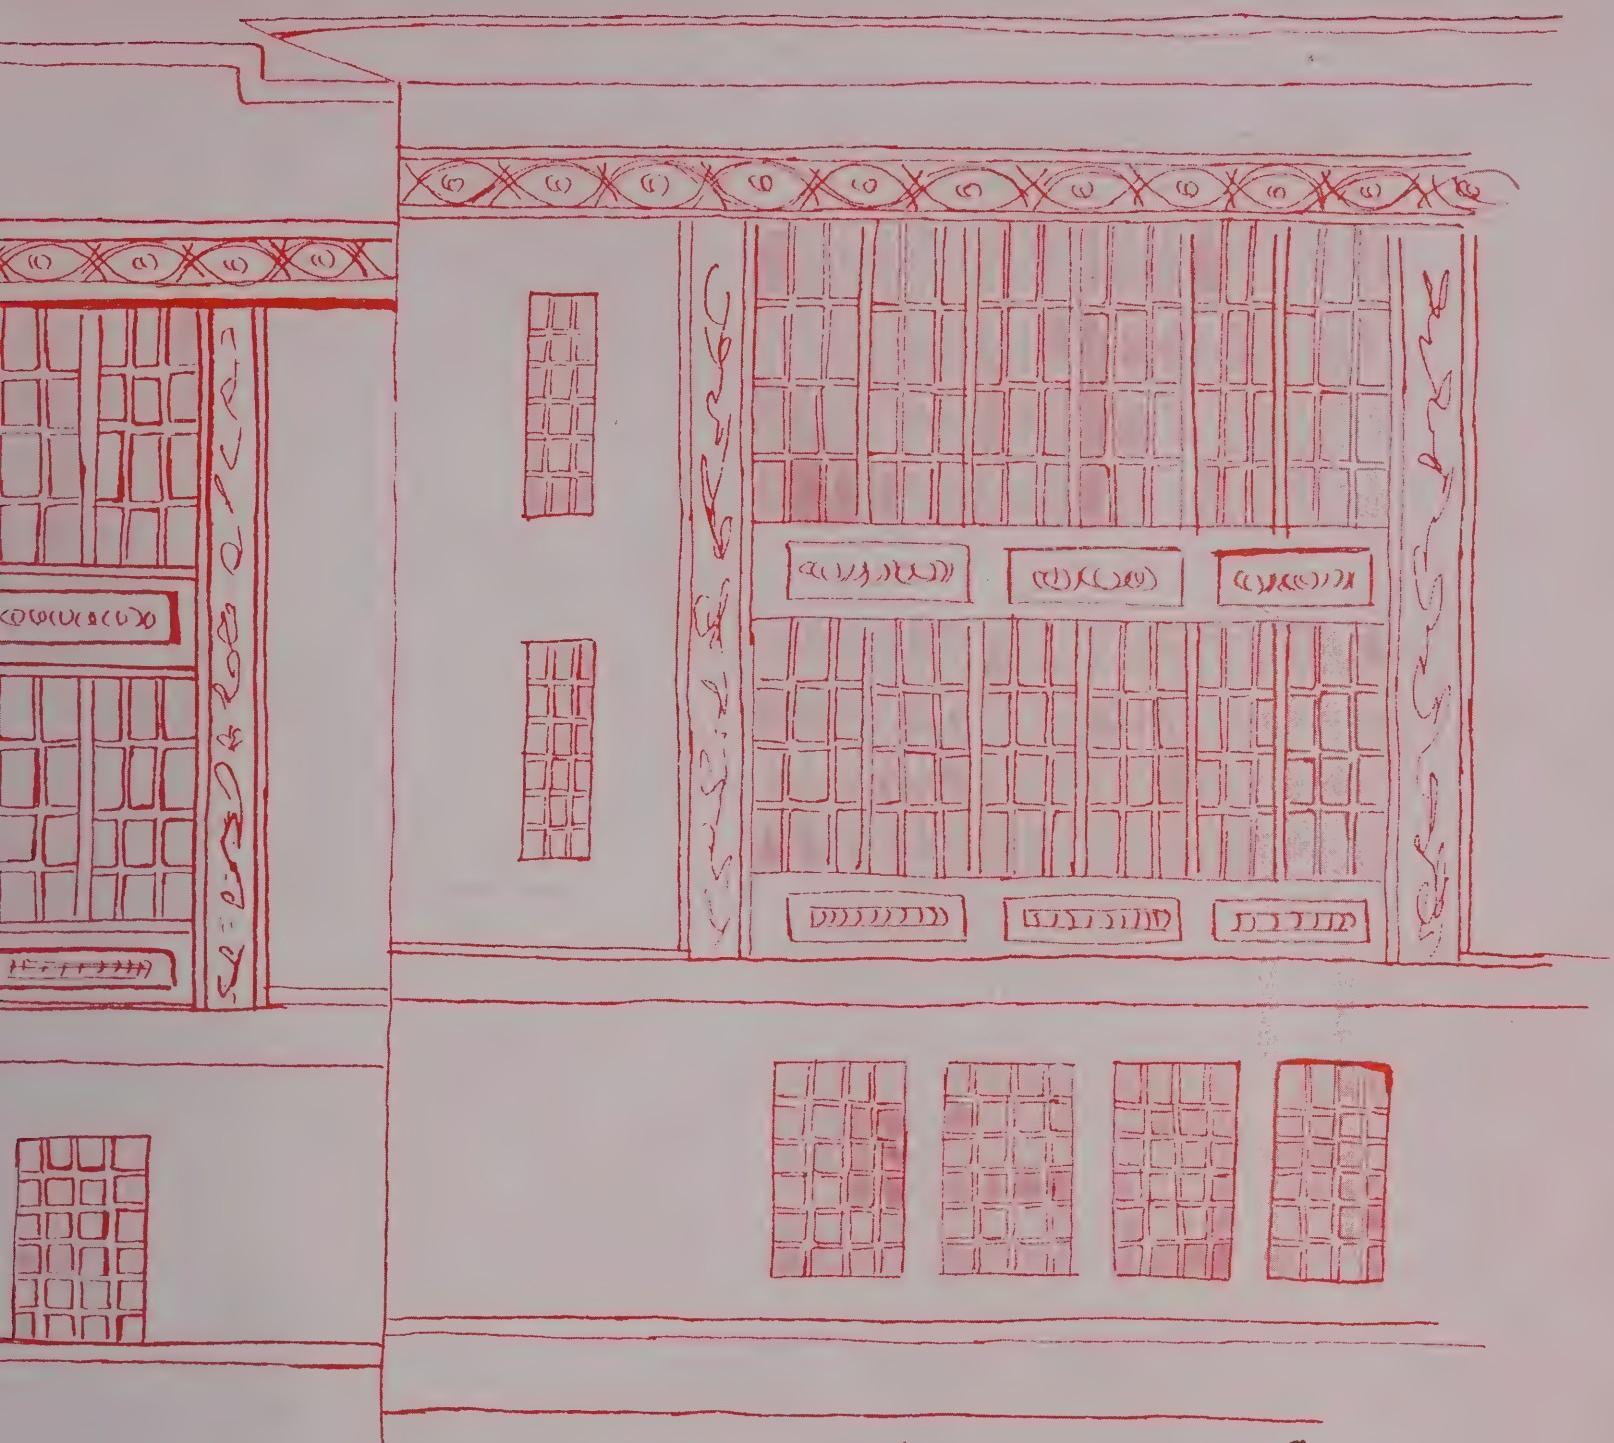

... Unknown
Beginnings

Student
House

Leaping flames of the bonfire cast a warm glow of fellowship as evening drew into the night of the first home football game.

The coming of a beautiful day finds Mr. Stout and Mr. Feagin, enthusiastic faculty members, and students watching Mr. Brogden cross the air field.

FALL...

On the first day of school sophomores in a flurry of excitement hurried among the confident upperclassmen in search of their classrooms. Already planned activities—such as, the "Get Together Dance," bonfire, and first home football game—filled the social calendar and confirmed the slogan "This is the year," adopted by the student government for '67-'68.

As the days became noticeably shorter and chillier, suntans began to fade, and the rigors of school set in. On the twentieth of October in a show of school spirit, the student body, supporting an instantaneously planned project, raised four hundred dollars. At the Friday pep rally students rose applauding as Leon Brogden, athletic director of New Hanover County, received a round-trip ticket and spending money provided by the project. His destination was Los Angeles where Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams, and Sonny Jurgenson of the Washington Redskins, both players formerly coached by Brogden in their high school years, clashed on the grid.

It was a cold Saturday morning at six-thirty when Coach Brogden boarded the ramp of the plane amid many cheers of faithful students and the rousing music of the New Hanover High School Band.

James Whisnant, escort, and Tommy Pollard, Student Body President, smile admiringly as Mr. Scott presents roses to the new Homecoming Queen, Beverly Jacobs.

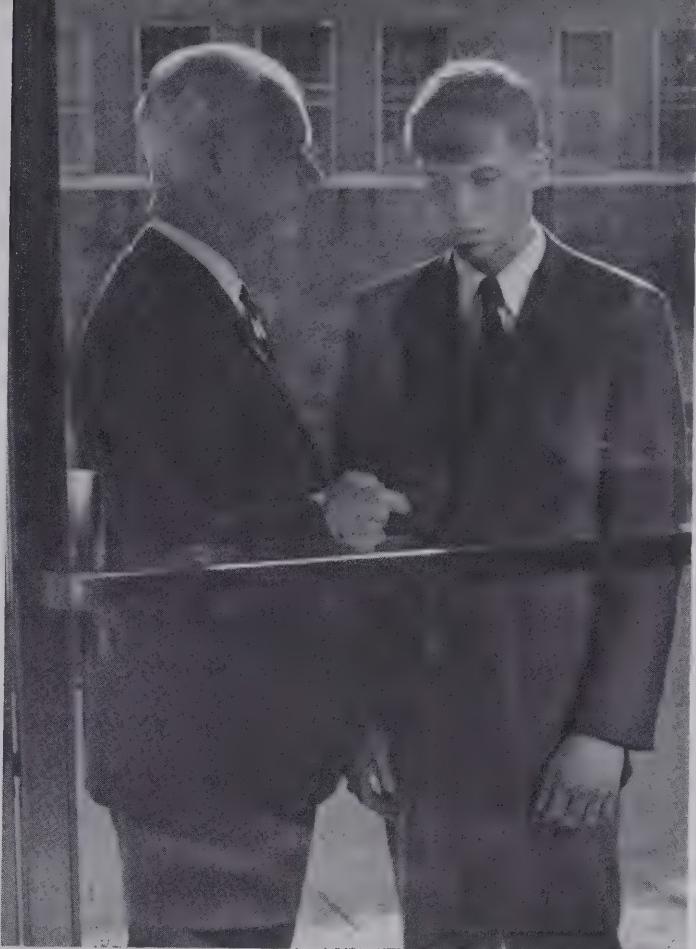

Running madly through the funnel formed by the NHHS band, cheerleaders led the football players out across the field at the beginning of each game.

In early October former Principal Wallace I. West stepped up to the position of assistant superintendent in charge of personnel of the county school system. Although students were sad to see Mr. West leave, they soon realized that New Hanover High School remains in good hands—those of Mr. John J. Scott.

In preparations for Homecoming—that magical first week of November—students built floats for the parade and voted for queen. On Friday, the third of November, the ten finalists appeared in a special pep rally.

Bronze mums and gay faces flushed with the cool night air characterized Wildcat supporters filling Legion Stadium at 8:00 p.m. for the homecoming game. During half-time, Harry Griffin received the first Wallace I. West Award for exhibiting the best team sportsmanship, and Miss Beverly Jacobs acquired the title of Homecoming Queen. While strains of the Alma Mater still echoed across the triumphant field of the Wildcats, "The Last Game," the homecoming dance, got under way.

On a sunny morning in front of the Student Union, Principal Wallace I. West discloses his new position as assistant county superintendent in charge of personnel to Tommy Pollard, Student Body President.

Students gather in front of the school during morning pep rallies—a new spirited trend at NHHS.

In preparation before exams, Sharon Robinson, tutor, drilled Abram Barefoot in the fundamental algebraic functions.

Civinettes, a newly organized girls' service club sponsored by the Wilmington Civitan Club, pauses before they clean up the Student Union.

WINTER . . .

Forgotten were thoughts of summer sunshine on warm beaches as the coming of winter brought to mind Christmas shopping, hard studying before exams, and, for seniors, complete applications to be filled and sent out.

Due to previously over-crowded conditions, New Hanover High School initiated a study hall release program in November. Through this renovation students had access to the use of the tennis courts, the library, and the student union. Also, students needing help in various courses could go to the coaching center located in the student congress room and operated by capable fellow students each period of the school day.

To promote friendly class competition and to arouse school spirit, a point system based on attendance at school functions was set up in the early part of the year. At the end of the first semester, seniors placed ahead of the underclassmen by a ratio of approximately two to one.

After assembly programs, seniors take advantage of their privilege to leave the floor while the underclassmen remain seated in the balcony.

Before the concert presented at Brogden Hall, Director Benjamin Swalin of the North Carolina Symphony advises the harpist on an intricate piece.

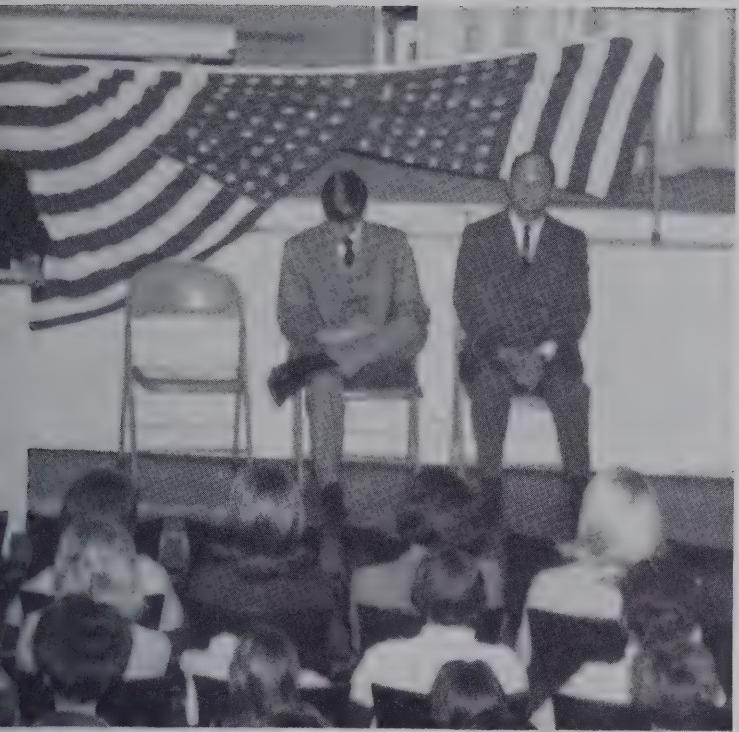

In the radiology ward of the Cape Fear Memorial Hospital, Dr. James shows the cobalt machine to research scientists Robert Johnson, Roger Byrd, and Tim McKeitham.

Principal John Scott introduces the Sertoma Club, whose program dealt with the observance of freedom week.

Through the released study hall program, Rosalie Conrad, Mary Jo Lee, Sara Sneeden, and Linda Lee take advantage of the tennis facilities.

Tom Clemons, burdened with a load of books, proceeds to next class.

Through research science, Independent English, and the advanced study program in co-ordination with Wilmington college, qualified students took advantage of public and private facilities available in the county. Going to places—such as, the Marine Bio-Medical Laboratory, Saline Water Research Station, and the International Nickel Company—furnished modern equipment and material to supplement the student's chosen assignment or project.

Little Anthony and the Imperials in concert at Brogden Hall, sponsored by the Azalea Festival Teenage Division, uplifted the monotonous duration of the winter months. Since this type of entertainment was well received by Wilmingtonians, the Azalea Festival Teenage Division anticipated drawing in big name groups to play in the Wilmington area in the future.

Cabinet members of the student body sold mums at a dollar and five cents for the Valentine Dance held on February seventeenth.

Mrs. Stanley, guidance counselor, congratulates Betty Szczerbiak for receiving the nomination for the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award.

Robin Hill, Joe Murchison, Jane Allen, Mike Barr, Jayne Little, and Bill Renn practice their dance steps for the Azalea Festival Teenage Pageant.

Gwen Brown, Sheila Britton, Nancy Morton, Mary Murrell, and Kathy Futch, shown at the Wilmington Public Library, participate in the Independent English program.

Pat Corcoran and Donna Brown, seniors; Susan Efird and Dottie Gieschen, juniors; Claudia Horrel and Karen Teachey (not shown), sophomores; make up the 1968 May Court.

SPRING . . .

In Wilmington the Azalea Festival marked the opening of spring. Gradually excitement built up in anticipation of the big week. Activities planned by the Azalea Festival Teenage Division included a concert by a popular group and the masquerade ball. In the weeks preceding the festival, members of the AFTD earned money for a pageant to select a high school princess and support the activities of the Official Party. A highlight of the season, the pageant ended the mounting tension over who was to be crowned the 1968 Teenage Princess.

Wilmington's Civic Youth Council, a new organization, consists of representatives elected by high school student bodies in the county. Based on enrollment, the number of representatives this year varied from each high school. Jimmy Boone, president; Gwen Brown, secretary; Jane Godwin, Tommy Pollard, Dottie Geischen, Joe Murchison, and Judy Walker represented New Hanover High School. The Youth Council planned and carried out community projects involving teenagers.

Caught in an extremely gay moment are Beverly Jacobs, May Queen, and her attendant Linda Simon.

Dancers, gyrating to the lively beat of the band, create interesting patterns of motion in the night.

Joe Murchison, Gwen Brown, Dottie Gieschen, and Jimmy Boone discuss possible projects for the Wilmington Youth Council, while Bettie Doughty, Judy Walker, and Tommy Pollard decide on a meeting place.

Exchange students Luisa Garcia and Loila Rosa Alván, both from Lima, Peru, chat with Carol Ozment, as Miriam Burns explains some similarities of the two countries to Frances Ozment.

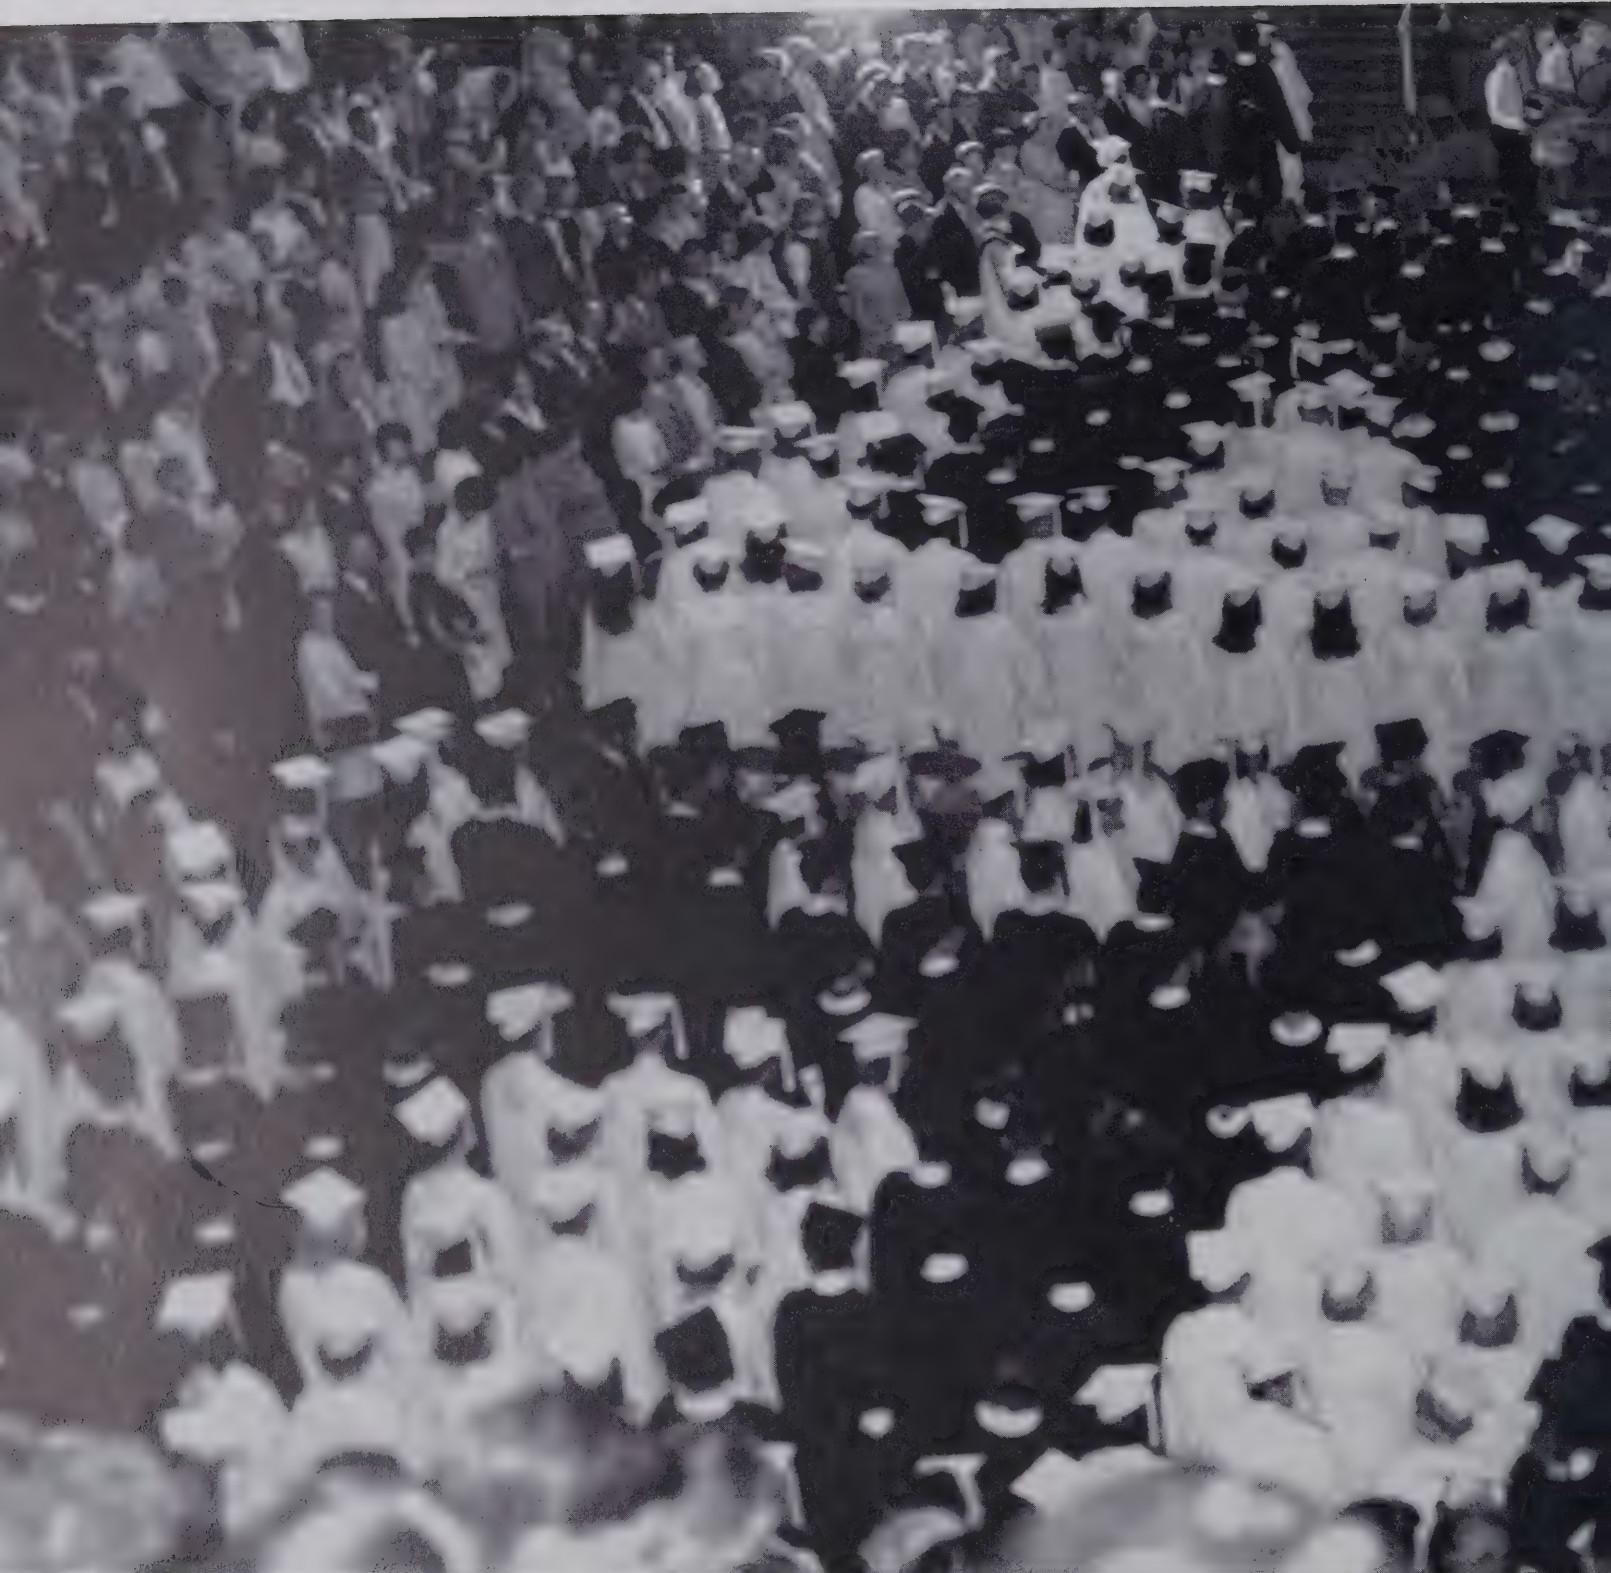

Seniors Joe Fox and Jackie Weeks celebrate the final six weeks of school.

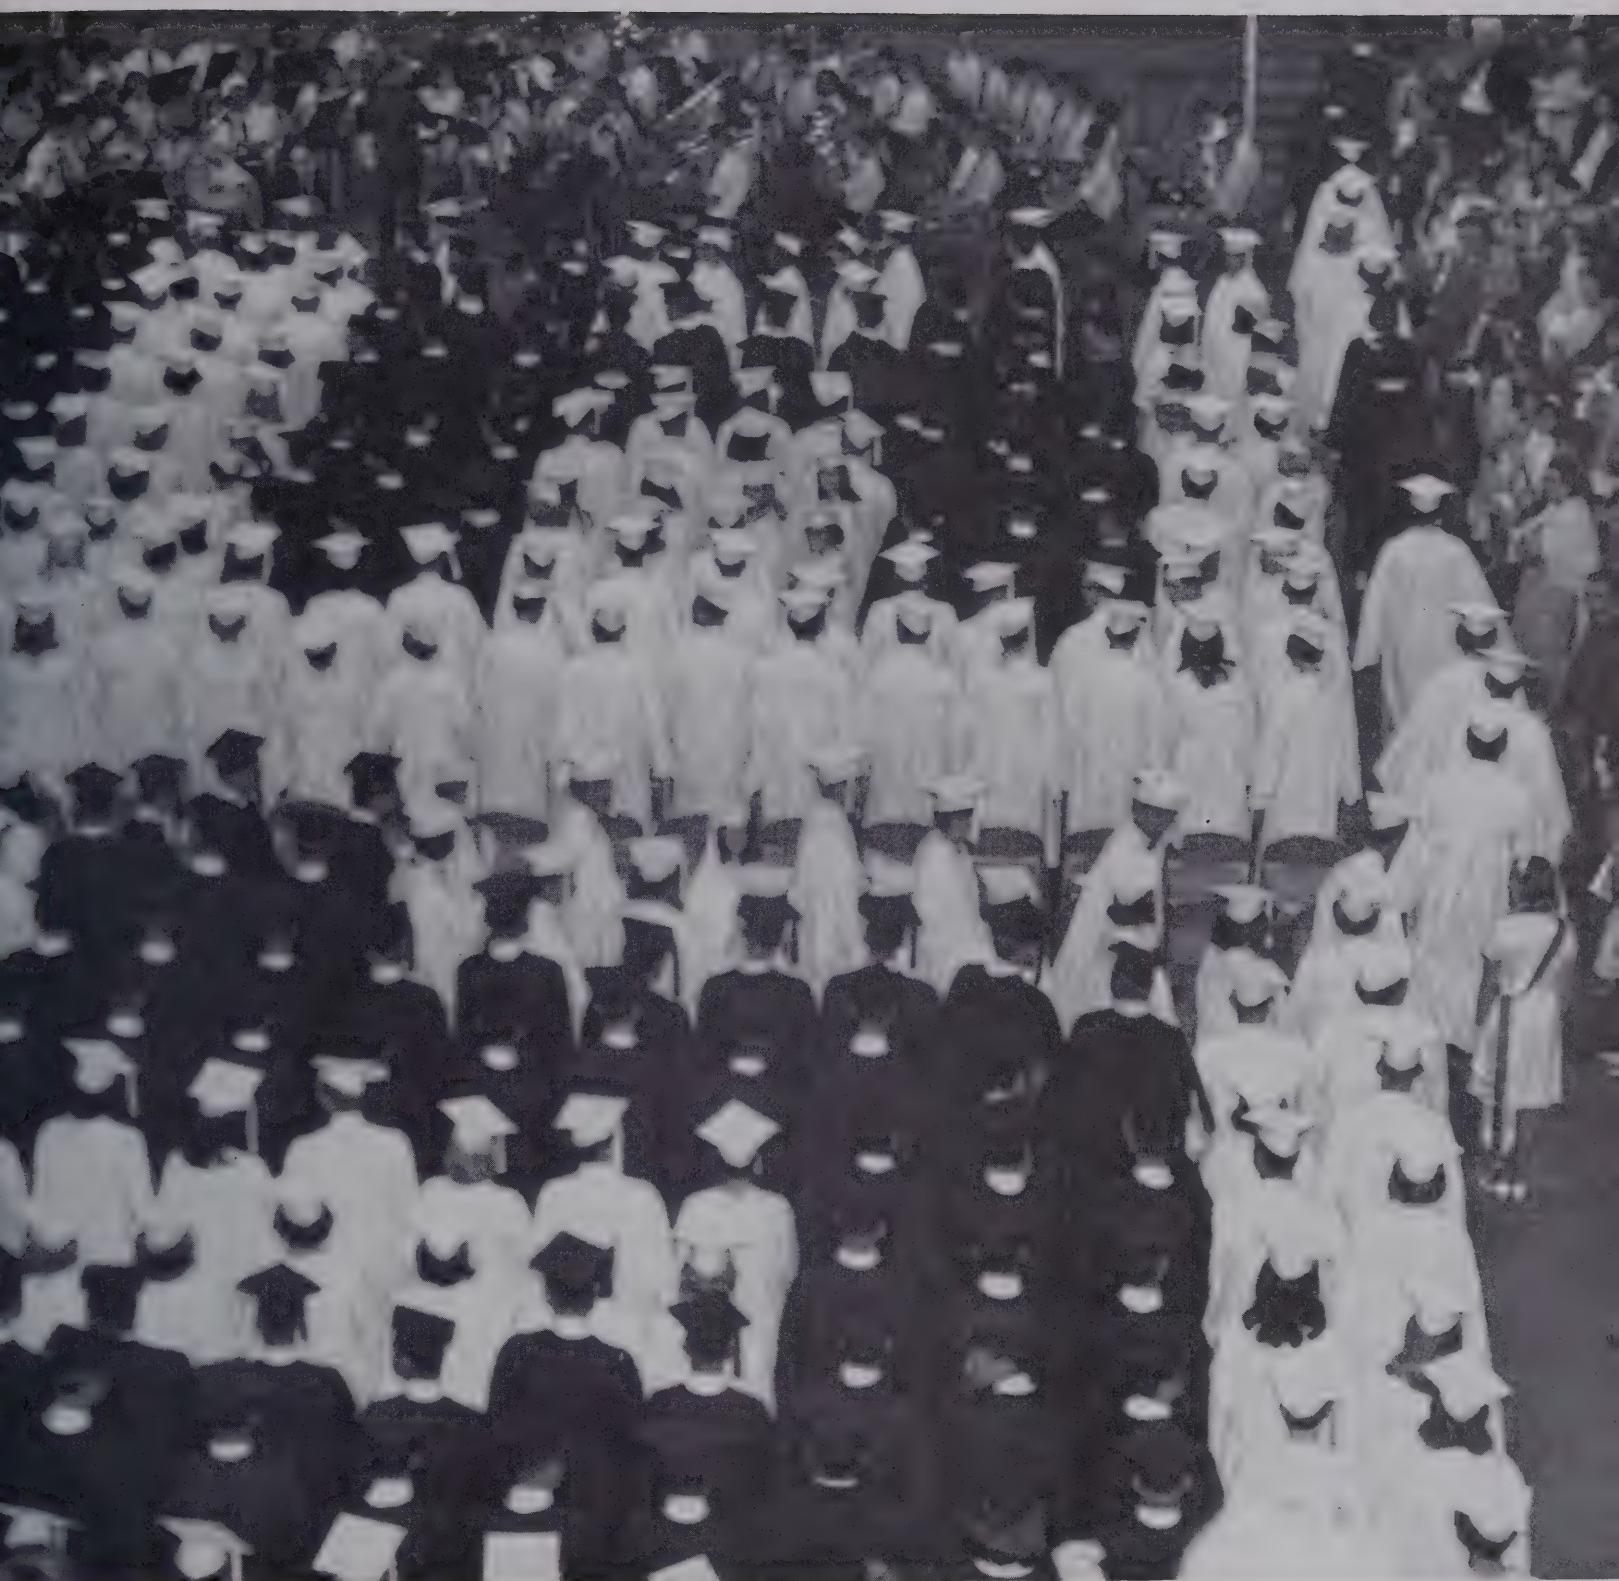

Thoughts of coming summer and the beach were overshadowed only by exams and graduation as the final six weeks period of school drew near and passed. Warm, sunny days tended to lure students away from study into the out-of-doors.

The Junior-Senior Prom, April 27, and the May Dance, May 11, highlighted the social events of the year. At the Prom tuxedos and long formals looked very different from the usual school attire. At both dances corsages and boutonnieres added that special touch. Miss Beverly Jacobs, May Queen 1968, reigned over the May Dance. After their presentation Miss Linda Simon, Maid of Honor, and the other six members of the May Court observed the coronation of the Queen before a crowd of happy, applauding couples.

As the year closed, sophomores looked to the time when they would be no longer sophomores; juniors eagerly awaited their class rings, and seniors exchanged calling cards and daydreamed of graduation and college. After elections for class officers, the baccalaureate and commencement committees completed last-minute arrangements for graduation exercises.

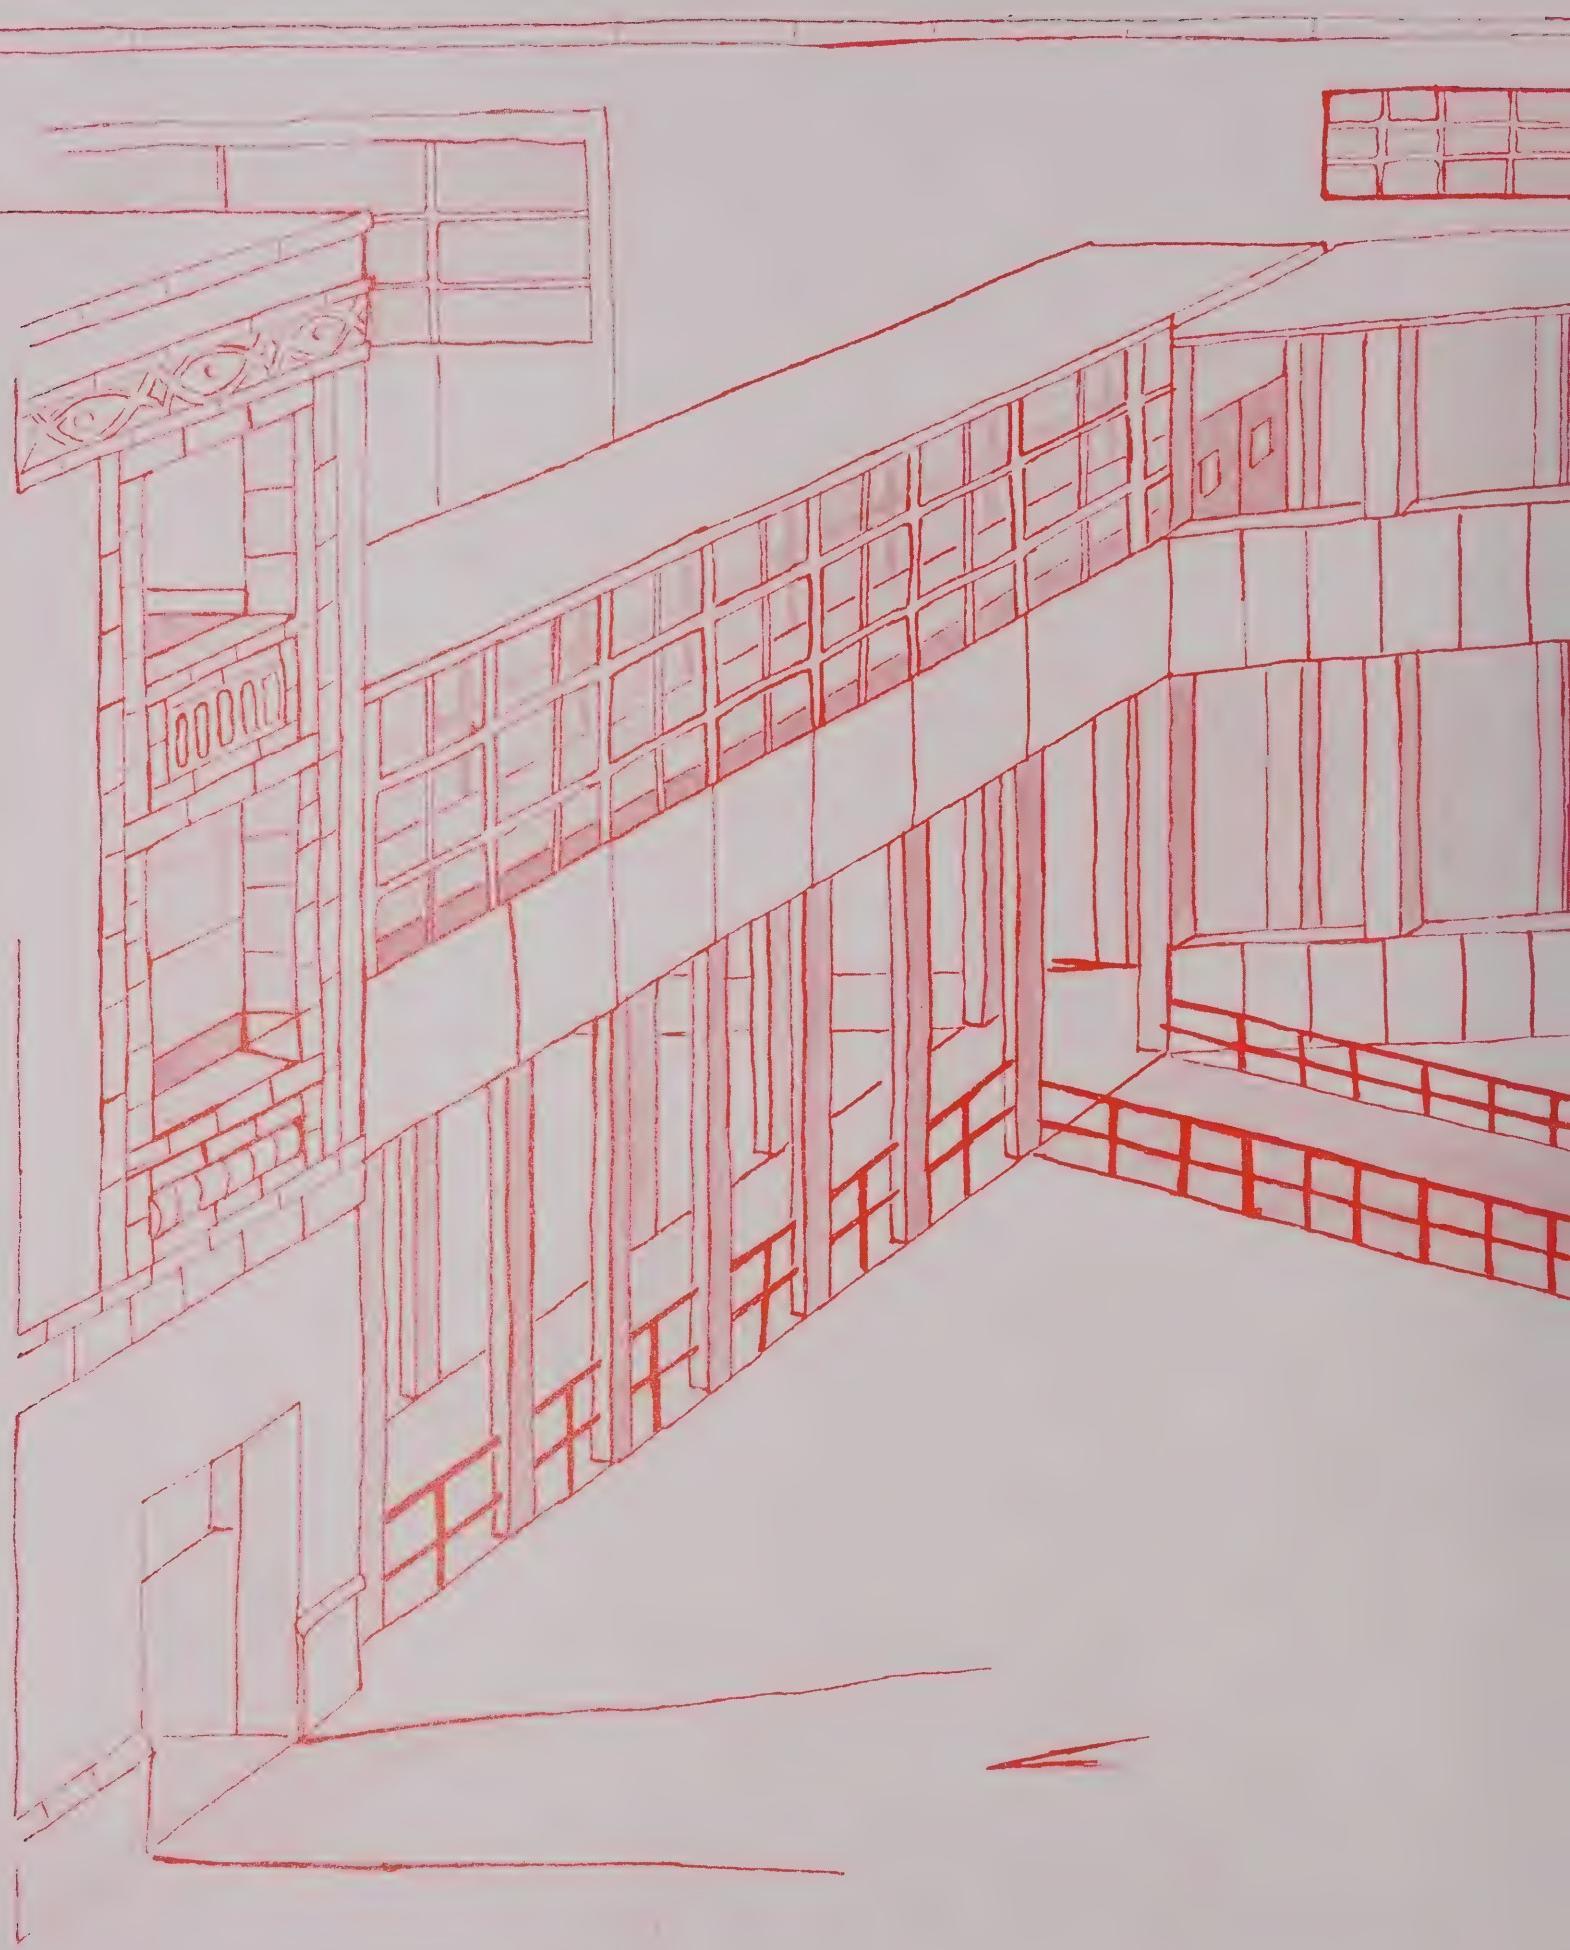

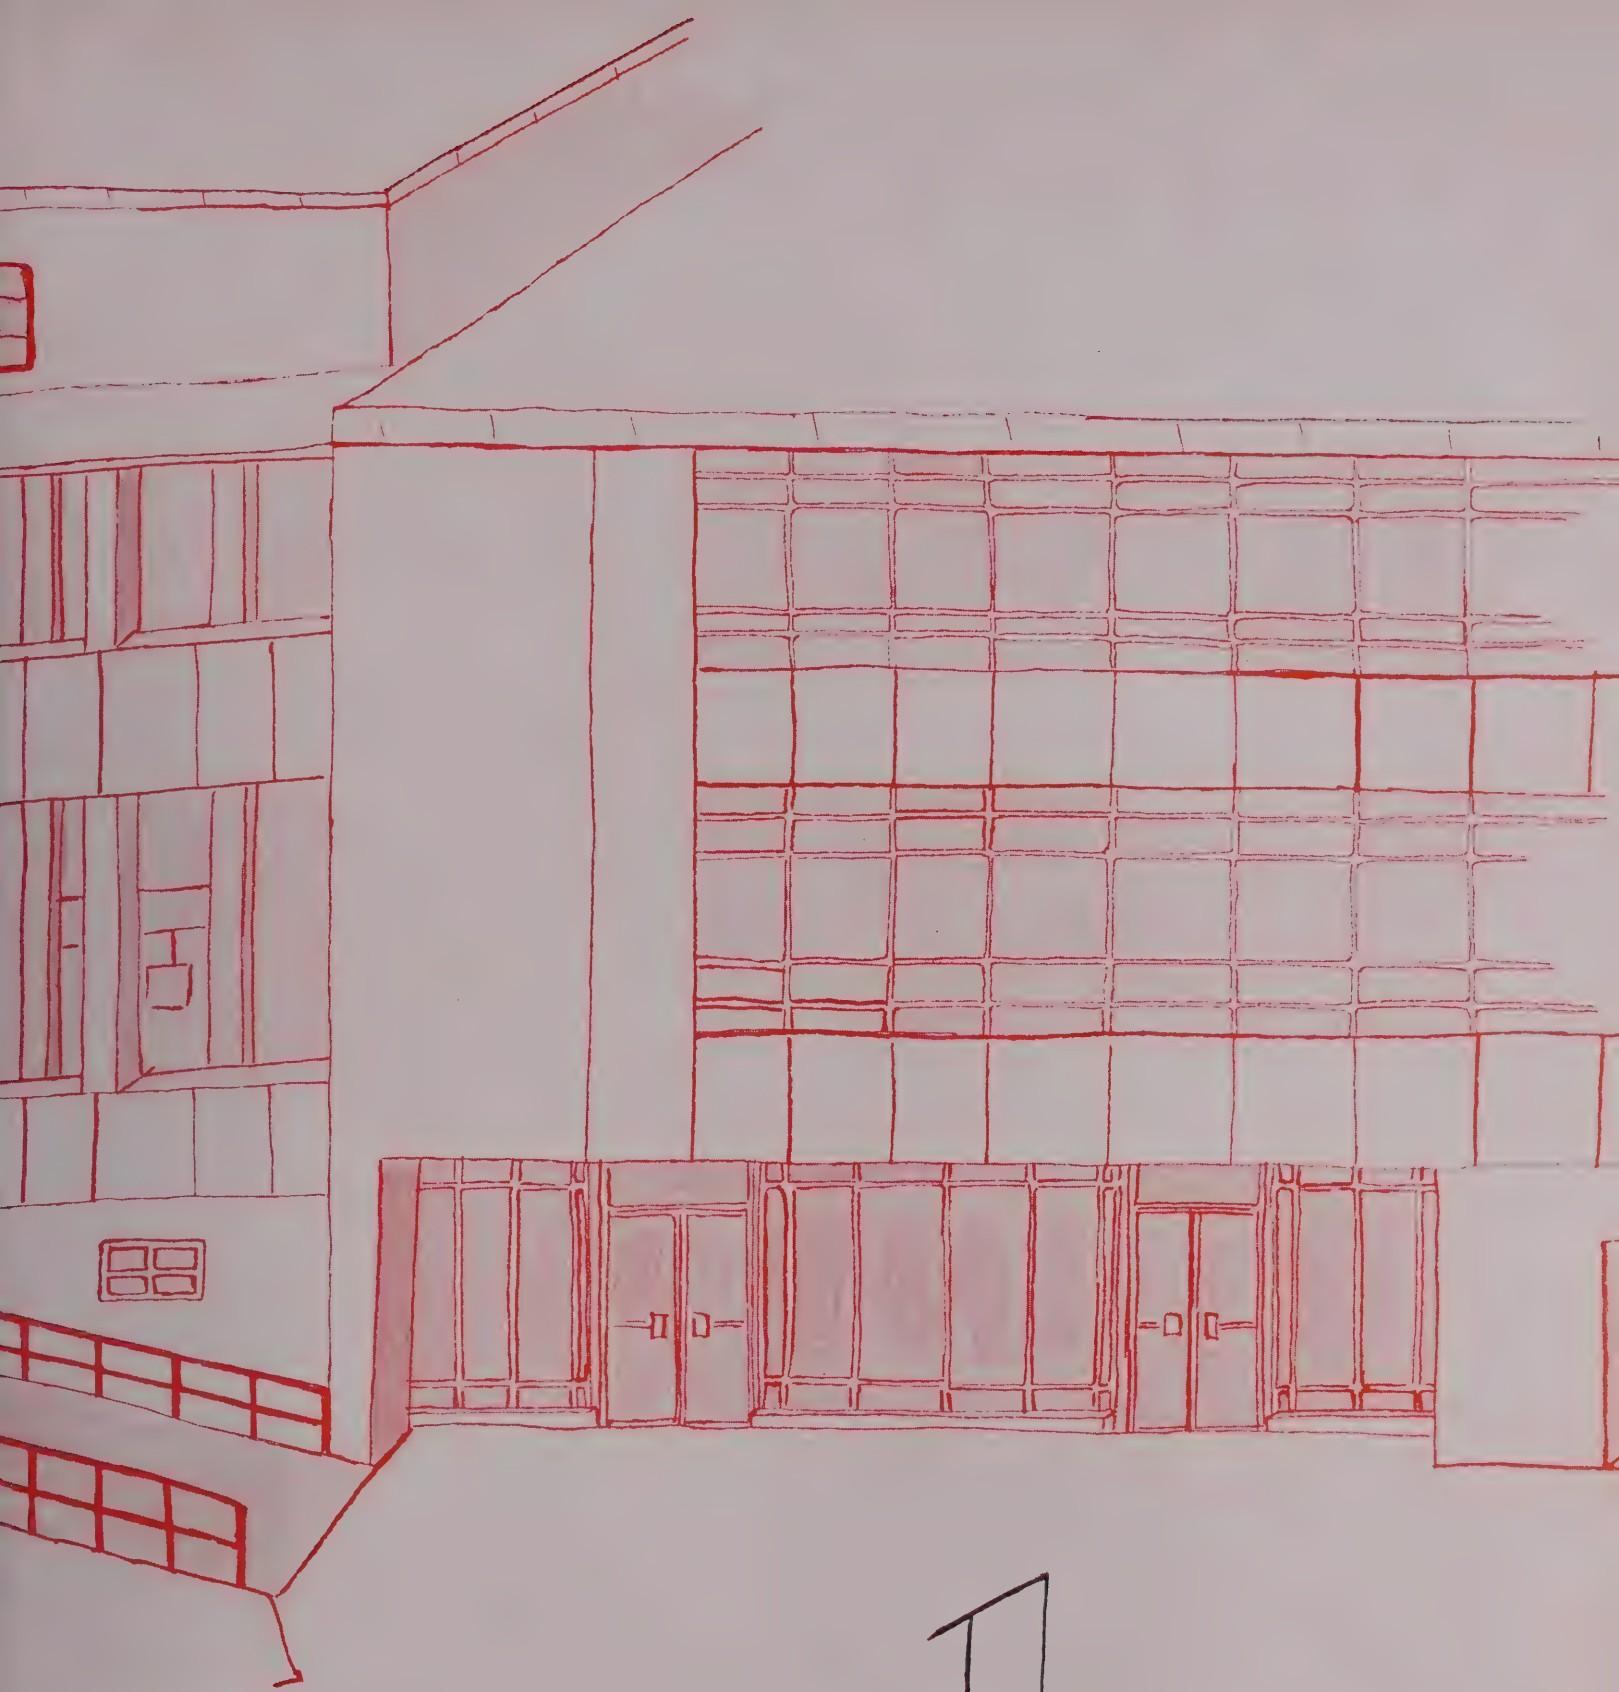

In a mad rush that seems to last but a moment, graduation passes. Caps and gowns feel unnatural, as if they should be worn by others. Among classmates a closeness never felt before brings tears as good-byes are spoken, some for ever. A struggle for words to speak inexpressible feelings causes looks of confusion on happy and sad faces.

Graduation, a moment of triumph, introduces more than six hundred seniors to a new challenge—applying the results of twelve years' study in making their way into life.

Student Government Initiates Point System

Homecoming Queen, Beverly Jacobs, presents the Wallace I. West Sportsmanship Award to Harry Griffin as Mr. Stout and Mr. Feagin observe the ceremonies.

Making this THE year, the student government initiated a point system to encourage participation in school activities. This system allowed points to be given to the respective classes—sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Participation at ball games, dances, plays, and subscriptions to the Wildcat and the Telephone Directory earned points.

Presenting the Wallace I. West Sportsmanship Award became the main attraction at half-time during the homecoming game. Homecoming queen, Beverly Jacobs, gave the trophy to Harry Griffin, the most outstanding sportsman on the football team.

House and Senate

George Currie, homeroom representative, collects money from Dennis Carter for Coach Brogden's Los Angeles trip.

Eighteen senators, fifty-five representatives, and three class presidents compose the legislative branch of the student congress.

With the help of the Hanover Singers, the Senate initiated a program to teach the school song to the student body. During homeroom period, a group of Hanover Singers visited each homeroom to teach the proper singing of the Alma Mater.

Members of both the House and Senate took the responsibility of collecting funds to send Coach Brogdon to Los Angeles to see his former students, Roman Gabriel of the Rams and Sonny Jurgenson of the Redskins, play football.

Secretary Tony Robertson reviews an agenda before House meeting.

Homeroom Chairmen Sponsor Poster Drive

In selecting her calling cards, Dawna White receives help from Cathy Felts, senior homeroom chairman.

Conducting homeroom elections for the May Court and Homecoming Queen became the duty of the homeroom chairmen.

To boost school spirit, the homeroom chairmen took the responsibility of having posters made for both the Student Union and their respective homerooms. Awarding a trophy to room 109 during a pep rally officially closed the contest.

Mary Miller, Becky Lamb, and Raleigh Todd, homeroom chairmen, admire the trophy won by their homeroom in the School Spirit Poster Contest.

The Judicial Department Enforces Regulations

Six judges, a clerk, and a prosecuting attorney staff the student court. On Fridays during home-room period, court convened to try violators of school regulations.

David Sessoms gives the judicial marshal assignments to company commander, Willard Fenegan, to be distributed to his company.

Kirk Brown, prosecuting attorney, brings charges against a violator before the judges.

Tommy Pollard, Leonard May, Jeannie Howe, David Sessions, Abbe Godwin, and Katrina Marston discuss their different ideas for the 1967-1968 Handbook.

Student Publications Supply Handy References

Mrs. Turner, advisor, and Suellen Smith discuss the contents of the Telephone Directory while Bettie Doughty and David Bissette admire the cover.

On the first day of school students received the 1967-1968 edition of the Orange and Black Handbook. Although especially helpful to the sophomores and transfer students, it provided answers to a myriad of questions for all students. This publication served as a guide to familiarize students with information concerning scholarships, school activities, football and basketball schedules, and the constitution. During the summer the twenty members of the handbook committee assiduously worked in order to distribute over 2,000 copies to all homerooms in September.

During the fall committee members of the 1967-1968 Telephone Directory distributed questionnaires which called for names, addresses, telephone numbers, and homeroom numbers of all students. Staff members then compiled all this information into a handy, pocket-size directory. Students who worked on the Telephone Directory divided into groups consisting of typing, alphabetizing, sales, and proofreading. Each group did a thorough job so that by Thanksgiving seven hundred twenty-nine students owned the completed product.

Social Marshals Official Hosts at NHHS

Bobby Kelly, Nell Hooper and Edward Warshauer help prepare the students for the Christmas season by decorating a tree.

Social marshals prepare the Halloween Tea.

Dressed as witches, flappers, and little girls, the social marshals sponsored a Halloween get-acquainted tea for new students, teachers, and newly-elected student government officers.

Teachers and students realized the nearness of the Christmas season as the social marshals decorated a tree in the main lobby.

In February the annual Valentine dance took on a mod theme. Decorations and publicity centered around the theme of a "Love-In."

Ushering at PSTA meetings, the Hanover Singers' Christmas concert, and graduation completed the social marshals' duties.

New Tutoring Center Highlights the Year

Jean Williams inducts Margo Reynolds while David Woodcock, Tim McKeithan, Mike Beale, and Tommy Morgan await their turn.

Sponsoring a new type of tutoring center was the main project of the National Honor Society. Students who excelled in a certain subject helped in tutoring other pupils. Each tutor spent a free period in the Student Congress room coaching. This proved to be an effective device in aiding students to obtain academic success. The National Honor Society also undertook the preservation of the grave site of Amy Bradley, a pioneer in New Hanover County education. An organized committee of eight members gave one Saturday to care for this historical grave site by planting bulbs and winter grass.

Twice a year about fifty high school students are inducted into the National Honor Society. Through character, scholarship, leadership, and service the newly inducted members endeavored to present an example for all other students.

In preserving the Amy Bradley grave, Patty Wilson and Diane Braak observe Susan Pearsall as she plants crocus bulbs while Dale McKeithan, Tommy Turner, and Robert Moore rake.

Rosalind Lipsius, Frances Farmer, Nancy Morton, Robert Moore, Tom Turner, Diane Braak, and Roger Byrd enjoy a light supper at a monthly meeting.

Diane Braak and Stanley Williamson review music for the Spring Concert with Mrs. Price, director.

Tommy Turner, student director, directs the Hanover Singers in a practice session before the Christmas Concert.

At the Christmas Concert the Ensemble R. Sweatman, J. Little, J. Weeks, T. Clemons, M. Herring, R. Johnson, M. Murrell, M. Harmon, D. Braak, P. Childress, K. Collins, B. Szczerbiak, T. Turner, G. McLucas sings "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

Musical Talents

At Thanksgiving the Hanover Singers presented their first concert of the season. This concert included selections ranging from "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place" to a light, secular number like "Around the Corner." During the Christmas season they participated in a Christmas concert which featured the "Hallelujah Chorus."

Although the Hanover Singers gave four concerts and performances for the Lions Club and a local television station, they found time for socials, including a masquerade dance in December.

Susan Pearsall and Sherry Wilson, rehearse a duet as Vangie Waggett turns the pages.

Girls' Chorus Develops Musical Appreciation

Girls' Chorus, a preparatory course for Hanover Singers, began the year by participating in the Christmas concert. Their selections included old Christmas favorites—such as, "Sleigh Ride" and "Christmas Was Made For Children." In the spring the Girls' Chorus also performed in the District Choral Contest, singing "Little Lamb, Who Made Thee?" and "Greetings" by Brahms.

Dottie Price demonstrates three-fourths timing as Diana Jones looks on intently.

Boys' Chorus Joins Hanover Singers in Concert

Members of Boys' Chorus prepare for the Spring Concert by rehearsing a difficult number.

Tommy Smith, David Hines, and Jerry Covil practice a trio as Lynn Boone accompanies.

Boys' Chorus, consisting of thirty-three members, practiced on each Tuesday after school. Perfecting breathing, pronunciation, and intricate timing became important features in reproducing the musical scores of songs such as "March of the Three Kings," "They Call the Wind Maria," and "Winter Song." After months of preparation Boys' Chorus performed with the Hanover Singers and Girls' Chorus in their spring concert.

Mrs. Price explains musical terms to Lucious Dickey, Tommy Turner, David Smith, and Robert Johnson, members of Boys' Chorus.

Popular Music Club Performs Hit Songs

Each Thursday afternoon the swinging sounds of popular hit songs echoed down the halls of the first floor. These grooving sounds originated in room 113, the music room and an after school rehearsal hall for the Popular Music Club. Its thirty members included students who enjoyed performing and singing the newest hits—such as, "Cherish," "Barbara Ann," and a varied arrangement of "Would You Like to Swing on a Star."

Wild's Beat Goes On

Lunch to many NHHS students meant a cheeseburger, a Coke, and the beat of WILD Radio. Having the music on hand helped create a more relaxed mood and provided a pleasant break from classroom routine. The disc jockeys divided airtime among themselves, allowing for a variety of records. No matter what their tastes in music may be, students were unanimous in their compliments of WILD.

Lively music by the "pep band" adds spirit to half-time activities at a basketball game.

Barry LeRay, Wes Knape, and Al Hardee look over the popular records of 1967.

Pep Band Formed By Student Government

Student Government sponsored a new pep band this year—the DGBTRH. Making their debut on Orientation Day in August, the band entertained new students with lively Dixieland tunes.

Through the fall and winter members followed the Wildcats to out of town football and basketball games. Students and teachers alike enjoyed the swinging sounds of "Dixie," "A Taste of Honey," and "The Stripper," when the band performed at pep rallies and assemblies.

DGBTRH members Tim Newell, Terry Hardison, Bobby Orrell, Greg Williamson, Robert Pontius, Harold Henderson, Sheldon Retchin, David Walton, Jimmy Braswell, Gary Smithson, Bennie Fussell, Chuck Williams, Lee Adams, and Warren Waggett play the Alma Mater at a pep rally.

Betty Jo Hale, vice-president; Judy Lapkovitch, Barbara Meyer, president; Peggy Quinn, treasurer; and Valora Single-tary, secretary; paint Santa's sleigh for the Christmas lawn scene.

Wildcat Sign Project of Art Club

Art Club members work hard to achieve the desired effects in their painting.

"THIS IS THE HOME OF THE WILDCAT" reads the message on a sign that the Art Club placed over the door of room 217. Although the sign constituted one of the major projects of the club, members also stayed busy by painting the background for the Hanover Singers Christmas Concert and renewing the lawn scene of Santa and his reindeer. In the spring, advertising for the Camellia Show, as well as sponsoring their own Student Art Show, filled the agenda.

Debbie Waldorf, Nancy Hurst, and Kenneth Duke finish a poster publicizing the Camellia Show.

Dee Littleton and Cathy Felts distribute programs at the Christmas band concert.

MAJORETTES. Betsy Coleman, Lynn Boone, Pam DeSantis, Conne Schwarz, Cathy Felts, Gerry Murdock, Jean Williams, assistant head; Dee Littleton, head majorette.

Majorettes Add Winter Uniforms to Wardrobe

Eight girls combined their talents to form the majorette squad. They lent a festive air to all home football games, the Homecoming Parade, and the Azalea Parade. Students had a closer look at some of the routines when the majorettes performed at pep rallies and at "Fill Brogden Hall Night" during Sportsmanship Week.

NHHS majorettes wore new costumes of orange velveteen and black fur this winter. They retained the sequined uniforms for indoors and warm weather.

Two of the members, Dee Littleton and Gerry Murdock, also played at formal band functions. At these concerts the non-performing members served as ushers.

School Band Adapts to ROTC Functions

Adding color and variety to the military formation during ROTC night were the seventy-four members of the NHHS band as they led the cadets on to the field at Legion Stadium.

Guest soloist at the Christmas Concert was Emerson Head, composer of the Alma Mater. In addition to accompanying Mr. Head in featured selections, the band did several familiar carols.

Besides the ball games and concerts, band members performed in the Teen-Age Princess Pageant, the Azalea Parade, the Christmas Parade, and the district music contest.

Members of the percussion section—David Mills, Terry Hardison, David Smith, and Maurice Buckman—listen carefully to Mr. McAdams' instructions.

Mr. McAdams settles last-minute details before the curtain rises at the Christmas Concert.

Tom Clemons and Royce Sweatman achieve perfection through much practice.

Abbe Godwin as Bionka, and Marsha Weaver as Kate dramatize their parts effectively.

The Taming of the Shrew Major Production

The finished product—the performance—rewards hours of work.

of National Thespians

When the curtains closed on the last scene of The Taming of the Shrew, the applause of the audience rewarded the cast for their many hours of work. By working on this production—whether on one of the committees or in the cast—prospective members gained part of the required hours necessary for membership in the national group.

Bible Club Presents the Billy Hallyburton Award

Supporting a Korean orphan became a project of twenty-seven members of the Bible Club. Jung, Sin Ja, six years old, received money for food, clothing and medical attention. Sending gifts of money for her birthday and Christmas helped to provide a closer relation with the orphan.

Presenting the Billy Hallyburton Award to the most influential Christian at NHHS highlighted the year. Each homeroom nominated a candidate for the award with the members of the Bible Club making the final selection.

Chess Provokes Thought

Each week the fifteen members of the Chess Club met to challenge each other in a fierce battle of concentration. Occasionally, a terse "Check" or a triumphant "Checkmate" would break the silence of the meetings. Though not a fast moving game, this contest between minds fascinated observers as well as participants.

Taking time out from lunch for a game of chess are Frank Lem, Jesse Gentry, and Jimmy Croom.

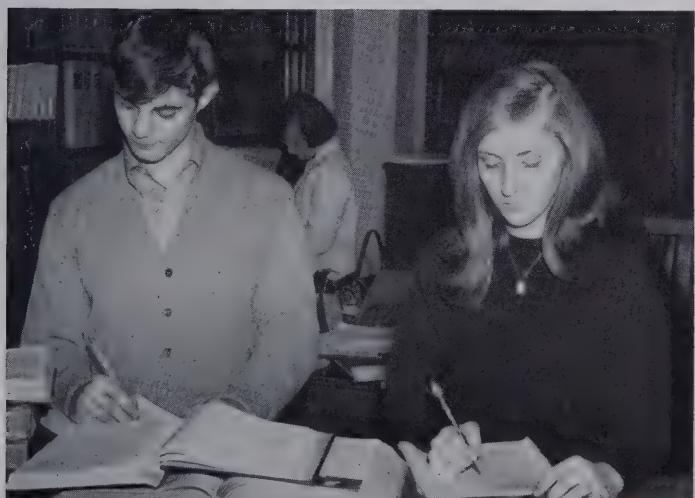

Frank Lem, David Woodcock, Billy Johnson, Max Warshauer, Jimmy Jordan, Gail Hutson, and Eric Lowe find that Chess requires deep concentration.

Debaters Choose Crime Prevention for Topic

By the time the six members of the varsity debating team participated in the state tournament in Chapel Hill, they appeared to be almost authorities on the subject of crime prevention. Hours of research and preparation prefaced each debate in the competition.

Club members had the opportunity to make several different kinds of speeches—such as, after-dinner talks and impromptu speeches at the Wake Forest Tournament in Winston-Salem.

Jerry Hobbs and Georgia Bradshaw do research on their topic in preparation for a debate.

Interact Club Sponsors

Tony Robertson, John Merritt, and Harry Griffin collect food to fill a Christmas basket for a needy family.

Featuring the "Soul Six," the Interact Club sponsored a dance, which climaxed the activities of Sportsmanship Week in January. In a farewell assembly, former principal, Mr. Wallace I. West, received a plaque from the Interact Club commending him for his three years of distinguished service at New Hanover High School.

At Legion Stadium during football season members decorated a goal post. During basketball season the club presented baskets of fruit to the visiting teams.

Presented during a special assembly, best sports for 1968 were Pat Corcoran, Dottie Gieschen, Kim Huband, Karen Teachey, Bill James, and Buzzy Davenport.

Abbe Godwin, Donna Brown, Brenda Cherry, and Dottie Gieschen listen as Harry Griffin addresses the school on his ideas of sportsmanship.

NHHS Student Apathy

On a Monday morning in October students found signs proclaiming "SS is Dead." A week of activity, led by the School Spirit Club, began an attempt to resurrect school pride. Excitement grew as the week continued, with events such as homeroom competition for the best decorated door and a search for the faculty member with the most school spirit. After a rousing pep rally on Friday, SS rose from the coffin. Keeping it alive continued to be the task of the club.

As Homecoming approached, members made posters urging students to attend the parade, football game, and dance. The club also sponsored Sportsmanship Week, featuring the election of the "Best Sports" for 1968.

As time runs out, anxious students await a foul shot during "Fill Brogden Hall Night."

Pat Corcoran, head cheerleader, informs Mr. Redwine he is about to give an impromptu talk on school spirit.

Government Club Sees Slides of Germany

Dawna White and Carlene Watson listen as Brenda Waters and Jayne Little campaign for Government Day positions in the city and county.

In the fall Miss Warner presented a program on Germany to the members of the Government Club. Members worked hard through the year to promote student interest in government affairs. Urging citizens to vote in the May primaries, the club passed out pamphlets reminding people that voting is a privilege. Other activities included participating in the American Legion Oratorical Contest and planting a dogwood tree on the front lawn of the school.

Members of the varsity debating team—Clare Glore, Bryan Jones, David Woodcock, and Abbe Godwin—present a debate to the Government Club.

COO Attends Banquet at Blockade Runner

On December fourteenth the twenty-six girls in Cooperative Office Occupations held a Christmas party at the New China Restaurant, where they exchanged gifts. In mid-December the girls collected food and clothing to be presented to a needy family at Christmas. A car wash provided extra funds for gifts for the family. In March the girls attended the Employer-Employee Banquet at the Blockade Runner. COO combines with DECA and VICA to sponsor this annual banquet, which promotes better relations between working students and their employers.

VICA Aids Local Needy Families

During the days before Thanksgiving, the Vocational Industrial Club of America made appeals through homerooms for contributions of money and canned goods. Members provided a traditional meal, including a turkey, for fourteen families. VICA, an organization for students who participate in trade and industrial education programs, also gave a Christmas tree, gifts, and dinner to an unfortunate family. Other activities included a membership banquet in a local restaurant and the construction of a downtown booth for donations to UNICEF. VICA collected more money than other participating clubs.

Club Holds DECA Week

Mr. John Scott and Mayor O. O. Allsbrook proclaimed November fifth through eleventh as National DECA Week at New Hanover High School and in Wilmington, respectively. On the front lawn a large sign advertised DECA Week. At a District Convention in Fayetteville members entered various competitions in sales, displays, and job interviews. On November seventeenth DECA members, Hal Williams and Ken McDaniels, spoke on the club and its activities at a meeting of the Cape Fear Sales and Executive Club at the Blockade Runner.

Key Club Presents Memoriam to School

Key Club member, Rusty Caines, attempting to make a touchdown is vigorously tackled by Interact members, Alan Hemby, Dickie Powell, and John Merritt.

A portrait of former Principal Wallace I. West, presented by the Key Club, now hangs in Mr. Scott's office. Key Club officers informally showed the painting to Mr. West and Principal John J. Scott February 23rd in the principal's office; later in the afternoon they formally presented it to the entire student body. To raise money for the special project, Key Club members staged a series of car washes on three consecutive Saturdays. In January the Key Club along with the Keyettes coordinated the annual Teachers' Banquet held in the Student Union.

Members of the Key Club and Keyettes also attended the North Carolina-South Carolina District Key Club meeting held March 16, 17, and 18 in Winston-Salem. They attended banquets, balls, and planning meetings held to outline the program for the Key Club for the upcoming year.

Keyettes Aid Study Hour at Boys' Brigade

Monica Felton views the art work of Johnny Blackwell, Walter Richard, and Robert Tucker during the study-play hour at the Boys' Brigade Club.

Every Wednesday night two Keyettes helped at the Boys' Brigade Club during the study and play hour. For Thanksgiving, members made turkeys of styrofoam balls and netting for the residents of Grotgen Nursing Home. They also provided the dinner and gifts for a needy family at Christmas. On Wednesday afternoons two members represented the Keyettes at the Kiwanis Club luncheon held in the Rose Room at Friendly Cafeteria.

Keyettes Terry Hammond, Linda Ballard, Becky Shields, Jane Godwin, Mary Strange, and Joy Spencer busily prepare decorations for Thanksgiving baskets for the Grotgen Nursing Home.

Suzanne Kelly, program chairman; David Bissette, treasurer; Nancy Morton, president; and Patty Wilson, secretary; make the piñata for the annual Christmas party.

Wilmington College Students Present Programs

Wilmington College students, Barry Alpert and Frank Henry, presented programs on their travels in Spain and along the Amazon River. At the annual Christmas party the Spanish Club gave a prize to Mrs. Maynard's sixth period class which entered the most original piñata. In January two exchange students talked on their country, Peru—its customs and schools.

Spanish students, Ann Olsen, Roberta Bazemore, Sheila Britton, and Mary Jones, prepare posters in Spanish emphasizing school spirit during Homecoming Week.

Representatives Chosen from French Classes

This year each French class chose one person as a representative to organize the French Club. By deciding when to hold meetings, the representatives started the club for the year.

Miss Ann McCrary showed colored slides and told of her recent stay in France for a year. Another program by Miss Joan Warner, teacher of French I and II, presented a program on the activities of teenagers in France—such as, night-clubs where the teenagers go to dance and sing.

Spanish student Sheila Britton, French Club President Tom Eiden, and Millie Dempsey discuss plans for Language Week in April.

Steve Lee and Mary Murrell lead French Club members in singing Christmas carols.

Latin Club Wins Homecoming Trophy

Latin Club members Suellen Smith, president; Ginger King, secretary; Barbara Morse, Mary Kuebrich, and Betty Barnhill discuss the spring faculty tea.

Latin Club won the Homecoming Trophy for the best entry in the parade held November third. At Christmas the club presented Mr. Scott and the faculty a Christmas card with a message written in Latin. In March the faculty attended a tea, at which flowers and pictures of the goddess of spring, Persephone, decorated the Student Union. In May the club held its annual spring banquet at which the members wore togas and ate a Roman meal. Attendance at the Junior Classical League meeting in Chapel Hill highlighted the year's activities.

Future Scientists Tour Bio-Medical Lab

During a tour of the Marine Bio-Medical Lab, George Futch, Mel Pearsall, and Jimmy Thompson view experimental mice in a pressure chamber.

Under the guidance of Dr. Brauer, head of the Marine Bio-Medical Lab, Future Scientists toured the laboratory. Reverend Charles McCombs and Dr. Stanley South discussed the theory of evolution in a two-weeks' program. In the spring the club visited the Morehead Planetarium.

Seven seniors formed a group of research scientists who studied and experimented in fields such as bio-chemistry and radiation therapy. They worked at New Hanover Memorial Hospital, the Saline Water Conversion Station, and the Bio-Medical Lab.

Betsy Coleman, treasurer, Mrs. Honeycutt, Home Economics teacher, and Kay Gregory, president, discuss the curriculum of the Special Education Department.

Future Teachers Award Scholarship

Barbara Morse and Betty Ann Palmer check the flashlight sales' records to make certain the club made one hundred dollars to finance the scholarship.

At a fall meeting Miss Calloway and Mr. Feagin discussed advantages and disadvantages of attending a large university. Another program featured Mrs. Bagby, Mrs. Bond, and Mrs. Honeycutt, who discussed the newly created Special Education Department at New Hanover. In November the club attended the state convention in Raleigh. At the annual banquet in May, Future Teachers presented a senior member with a one-hundred dollar scholarship financed by a flashlight sale.

Jean Andrews assists Mrs. Borneman by putting up a Christmas bulletin board.

Individuality vs Conformity FHA Theme

Nancy Solomon, Ann Yarboro, and Kathy Smith prepare toys collected during their Christmas drive for their needy family.

Individuality vs. Conformity, the club's theme for this year, was the topic of a talk by the Rev. William Flannagan in the early fall.

As a money making project, members sold school record books and cookbooks. Money raised from these sales went towards groceries for a needy family for whom they collected clothes and toys at Christmas time. For children at New Hanover Memorial Hospital the girls made booklets, consisting of pictures, puzzles, and stories.

Kathryn Bradshaw, Janice Boone, Donna Wells, Ann Yarboro, and Linda Hodges make costumes for the Christmas plays given by the nursery children.

Nursery Assistants Direct Christmas Plays

While some assistants directed the nursery children in rehearsals, other assistants made the costumes for the two Christmas plays. Kathryn Bradshaw and Linda Salsbury wrote "Snowflake" and "Santa's Workshop," which the children presented to their parents on December nineteenth.

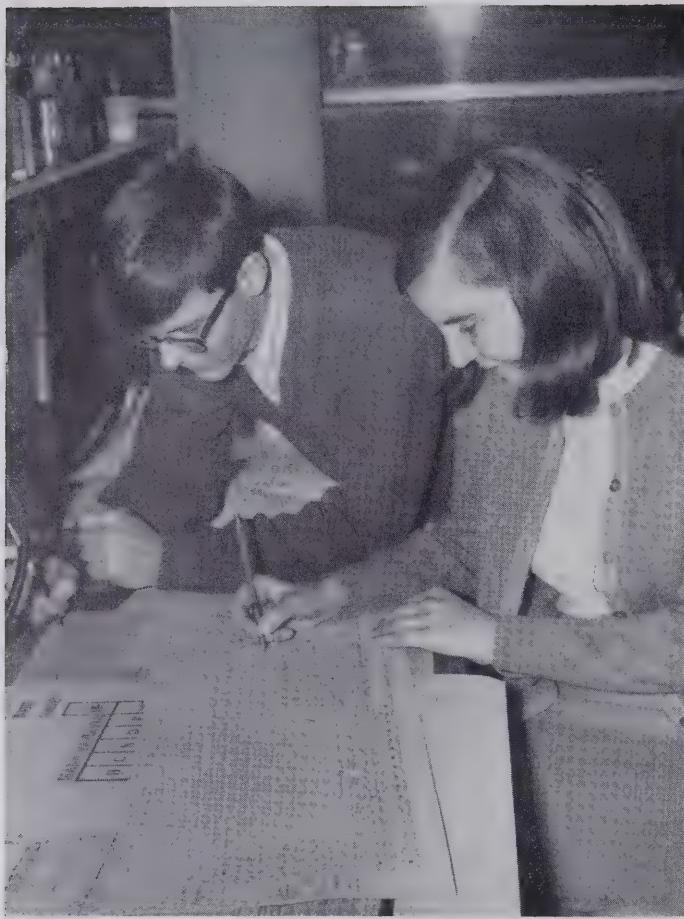

Janice Boone and Donna Wells help the children dress for a play period.

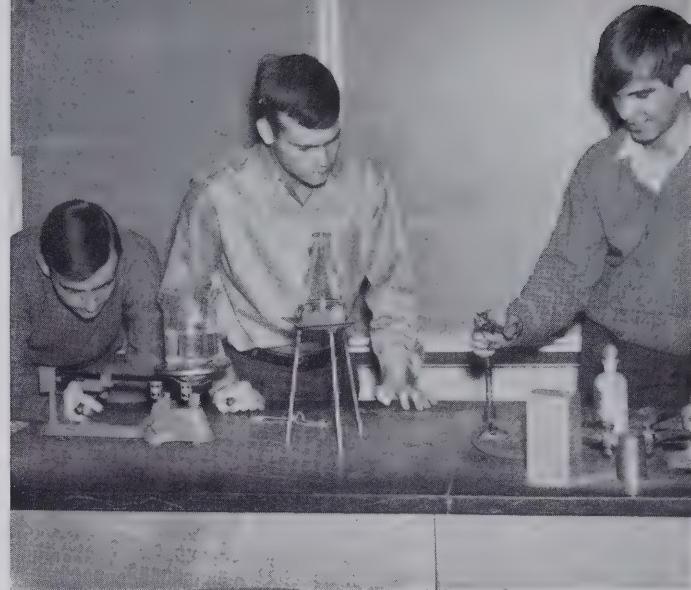

Serving lunch to the children, supervising them during outdoor play periods, and playing the piano for singing sessions formed a large part of the helpers' duties. Assistants helped to put up seasonal bulletin boards, which often featured pictures the children had colored.

Janet Parker leads the nursery children in singing sessions at Christmas.

Billy Boney and Betty Szczerbiak, lab assistants, grade periodic charts of the elements.

Lab Assistants Provide Individual Help

Students who displayed an exceptional amount of interest while taking chemistry chose to become lab assistants during their free period. While the chemistry students themselves were in the lab, the assistants were there ready to answer questions or clear up any problems which might arise. After class they washed lab equipment or helped the teacher by grading papers handed in during the day. Access to the equipment provided these students opportunities for advanced study.

Sandy Parnel sets up her lab with the aid of lab assistant Billy Boney. Jimmy Boone, Robert Johnson, and Charles McDonald observe, as Roger Byrd explains the day's assignment to Mary Miller.

Fay Murrell scans a book while Judy James, library assistant, post directions for finding books as Eleanor Swart and Jane Teeter, library assistant, look for new books.

New System Introduced to Library Assistants

Don West listens to excerpts from Truman's Capote's recent novel, In Cold Blood.

A new system of checking out books started at the beginning of the school year. One of the librarians went to each English class to distribute library cards. After the distribution she explained how the new system operated. Each student had a number assigned to him; therefore, the chance of misplacing books or mischarging dues on books decreased. The Board of Education added new books shelves to the library. Rearrangement of the shelves provided more space for students to use during their free period.

Students Assist as Principalship Changes

With the transfer of principals the office assistants helped Principal John J. Scott adjust to the school by performing tasks to save him time. Daily duties of the assistants consisted of carrying notes to students in classes, sorting mail, and answering the telephone. Among other duties the assistants filed program cards with schedule changes and ran off stencils for teachers. Student Union assistants provided correct change for the students at both lunch periods and during the students' free study periods. Assistants to the Dean of Girls, Dean of Boys, and Guidance Counselors filed student records, typed forms for college applications, and tallied the daily absentee list.

Rebecca Johnson and Susan Davis check the office's files of student records for Mr. Potter.

Kay Porter puts daily bulletins in the teachers' boxes.

Society Inducts Twenty-Six Members

Jean Williams, president; Alice Proctor, social chairman; Rosalind Lipsius, secretary-treasurer; and Marguerite Curtis, program chairman; make plans for a meeting.

Quill and Scroll, consisting of forty-six members, comprised one of the largest clubs at New Hanover High. Junior and senior students on newspaper and yearbook staffs made up this honorary club. At an early fall meeting the club initiated a total of twenty-six students. Past members of the club took part in the candlelight ceremony. Jean Williams, president, presided during the ritual, assisted by Alice Proctor, Gwen Brown, and Lee Formy-Duval. The club held an election of officers for the coming year and inducted them at the spring meeting.

Color Photo Brings Praise to Wildcat

Vickie Davis interviews Mr. Redwine for a feature story.

What caught the eyes of students this year in the Wildcat appeared in the Christmas issue—an attractive color stained-glass window of Jesus praying in the hills of Palestine. Included in the 1967-'68 issues were such articles as student views on exams, ouija boards, and twelve months school term. Every month certain staff members produced the school page of the Wilmington Star News to keep citizens informed about events at NHHS. Other members interviewed faculty and students with unusual interests—such as, one teacher who had once been a skiing instructor and a student who learned to fly.

As Page Scott prepares a distribution list, Linda Simon folds a copy of the Wildcat for another school while Mrs. Boone, circulation staff, Peggy Brown, Miss O'Keef, circulation staff, and Phyllis Diehlmann arrange papers by homerooms.

Hanoverian Sends Representatives to SIPA Convention

Linda Dixon and Marilyn Leonard, activities staff head, check picture lists as David Dixon and Becky Coleman correct cutlines while Marguerite Curtis looks over a past yearbook for different ideas.

Miss Helen Dobson, advisor, Patty Wilson, editor-in-chief, and Miss Ruth Galloway, advisor, compare miniature dummies for accuracy.

Fred Ourt and Richard Wilson, co-sports staff heads, make last-minute changes on picture plans prior to a home basketball game.

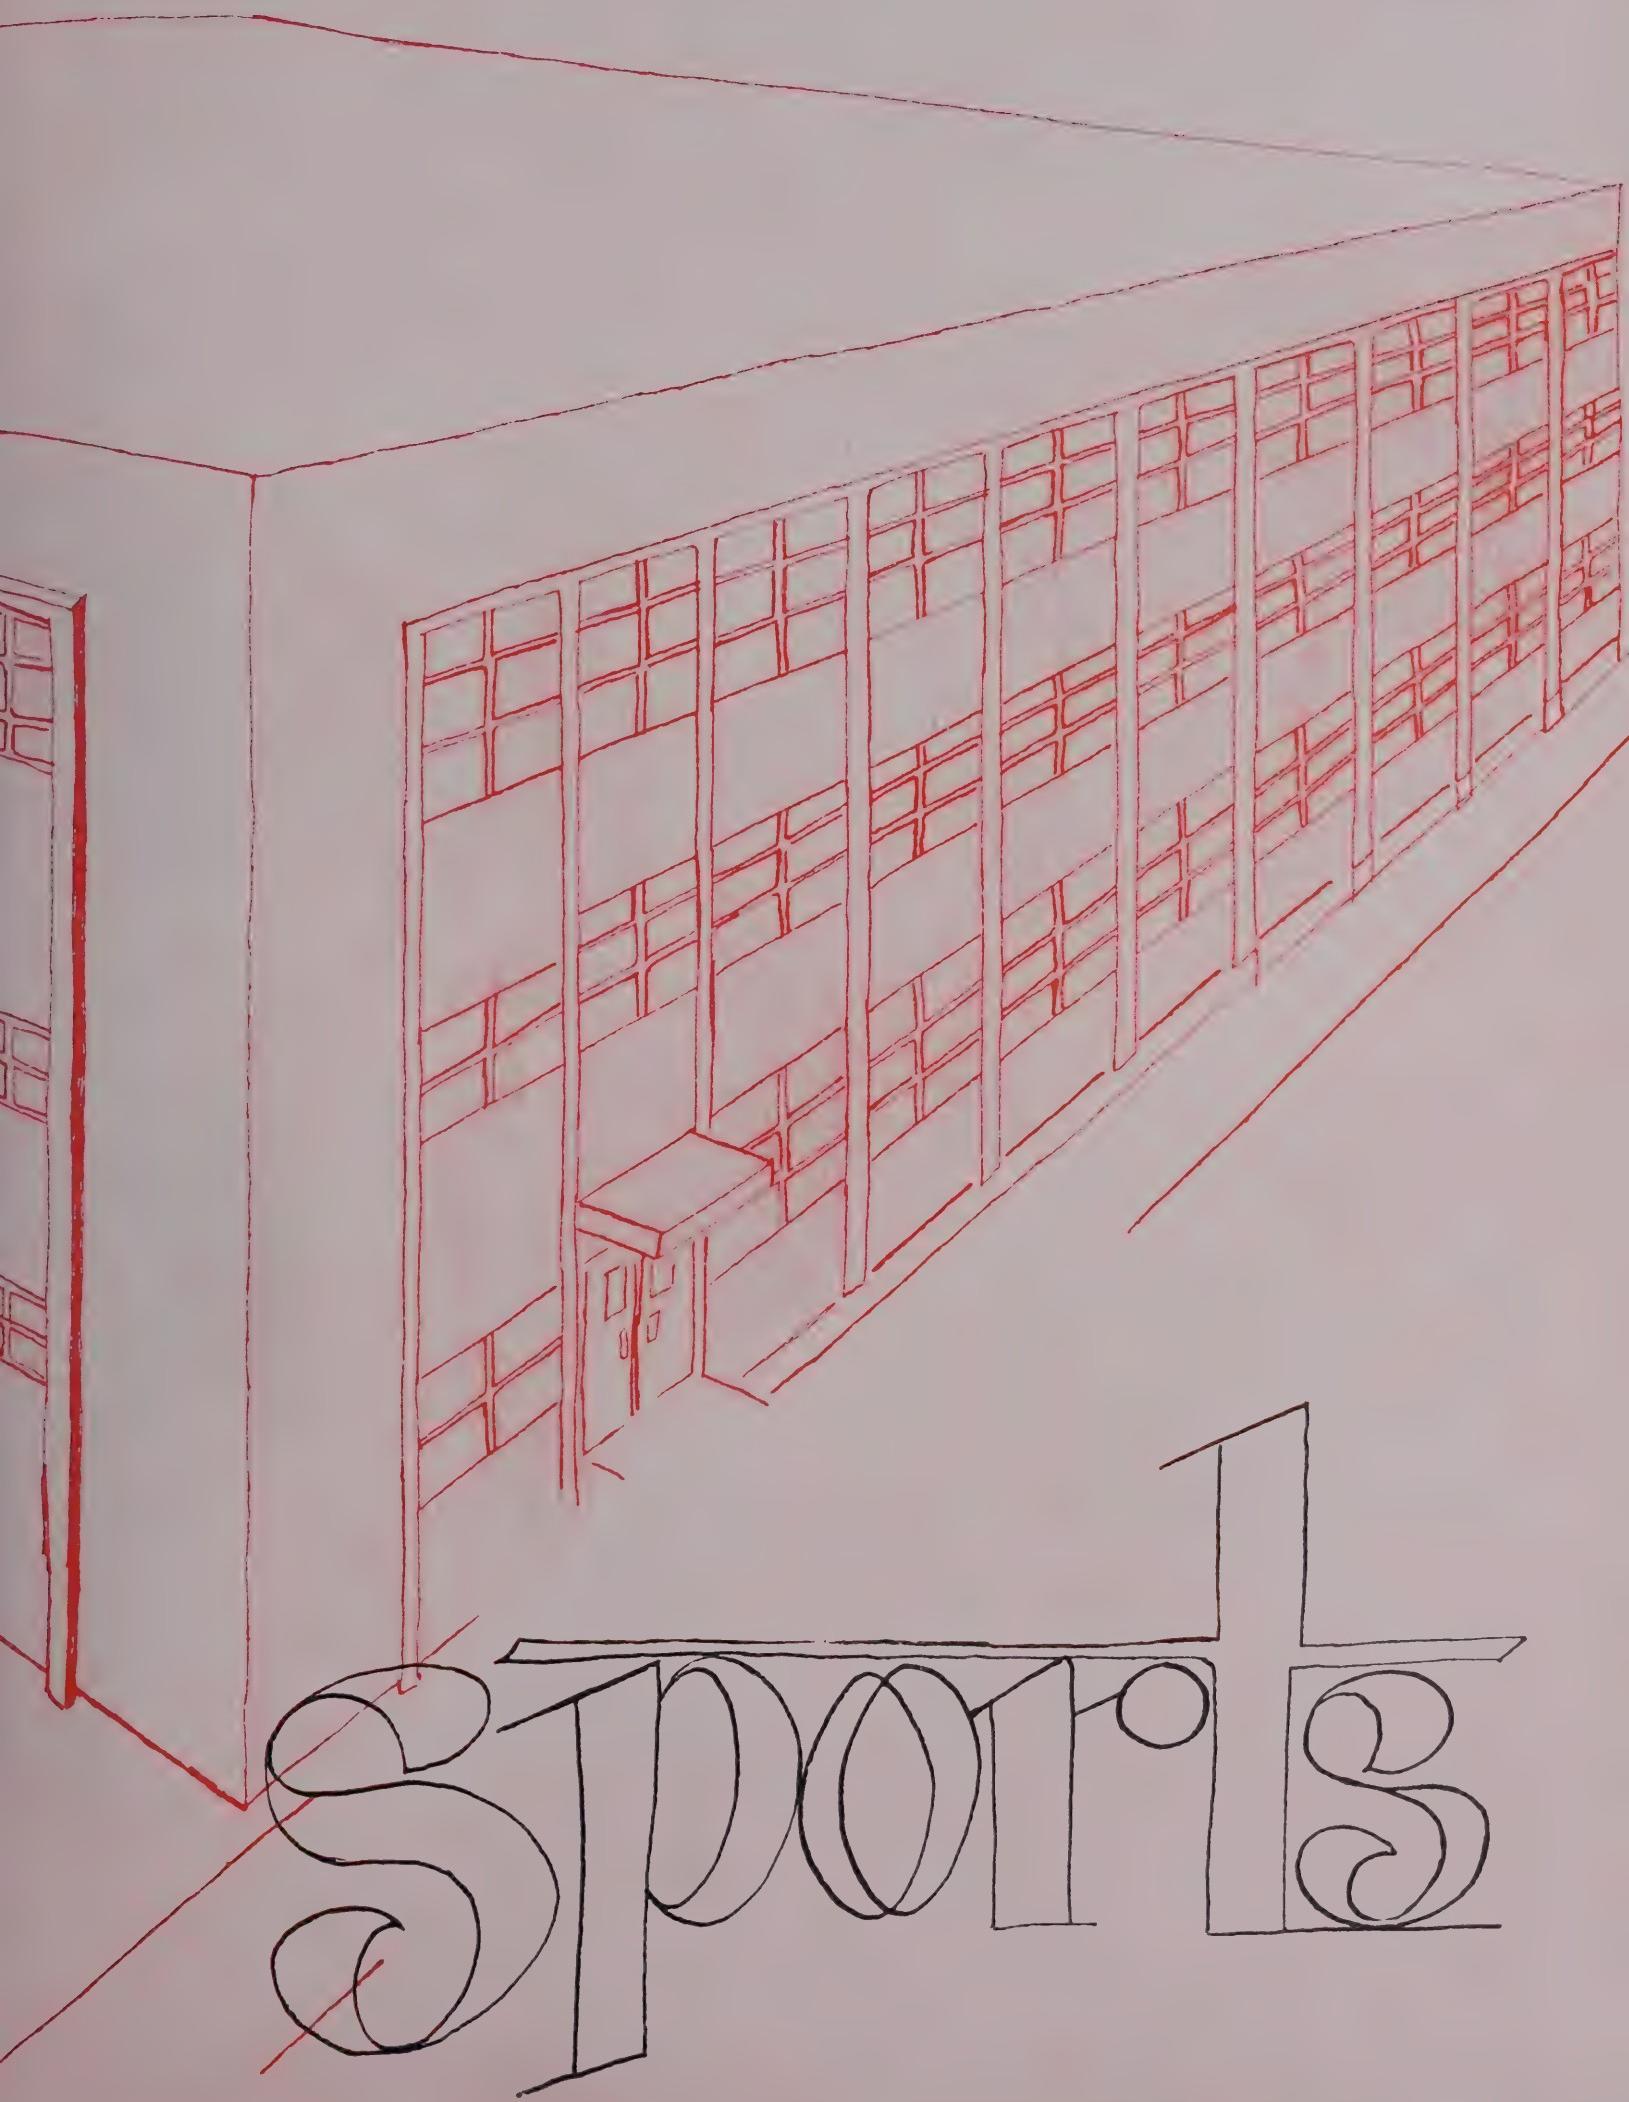

Twenty-three members of the 1968 HANOVERIAN staff organized early in the year to decide color, theme, and cover design. Individual staffs—ROTC, activities, class, features, and sports—merged ideas into layouts, pictures, and copy. In the spring the editor-elect and the advisor attended the Southern Interscholastic Press Association. Here they attended short courses in yearbook planning and production under the instruction of such authorities as Dr. Regis Boyle and Dr. Benjamin Allnut.

Lee Formy-Duval, ROTC staff head, and Stephen Duke make a tentative picture list.

Film reviews and early team practices conducted by head coaches Jap Davis, football; Toddy Fennell, basketball; and George Hardee, baseball, give Wildcat teams the edge.

Coaches Strive to Instill Team Pride and Unity

Numerous changes occurred in the Wildcat coaching ranks in 1967-1968. Soccer, making its debut as a varsity sport, was coached by Alex Weide and Jay King. Mr. King, a former athlete at New Hanover, also directed the cross country team and assisted in spring track. Other new members to the staff included Dave Campbell, who directed JV basketball and spring track and assisted in JV football, and Harry Hale, whose experience in wrestling was invaluable to the grapplers. Jap Davis continued as head director of football, wrestling, and golf. Toddy Fennell completed a highly successful season in his first year as head basketball coach. Mr. Fennell also helped direct the baseball program. Hal Stout occupied the position of assistant varsity basketball coach, in addition to his duties as head JV football mentor. George and Bill Hardee guided their baseball team to another rewarding season. The Hardees continued to help direct the varsity football team. Rich Henderson, tennis coach, led his netters through another fine season.

Lineup Shows Surprising Junior Strength

In the opening bout of the '67 grid season, the Wildcats combined a balanced attack with a tenacious defense to blank the Kinston Red Devils 19-0. In their first home showing, the 'Cats fought perenially powerful Raleigh Broughton to the line before being edged in the final quarter. Even with quarterback Mike Beale's finest passing performance of the season, the Wildcats could not break a stalemate at Rocky Mount in their second conference outing. In their second home contest, the 'Cats were unable to stop Durham's elusive backfield and were subsequently set back 12-0. At Goldsboro, New Hanover had to defend an early touchdown spread to defeat a scrappy Earthquake squad. The Wildcats were stunned by Lower Richland 6-14 at the start of the second half of the season. Quickly recovering, the 'Cats wreaked their revenge on a hapless Enloe team, 32-0. At Wilson, the Wildcats dropped their contest to the powerful Cyclones, who were later determined the State 4A Conference Champions. At Homecoming, the 'Cats demonstrated a fine fighting spirit by defeating an equally determined Bulldog delegation. In the final game, New Hanover admitted its final defeat of the season by a sound Jacksonville club.

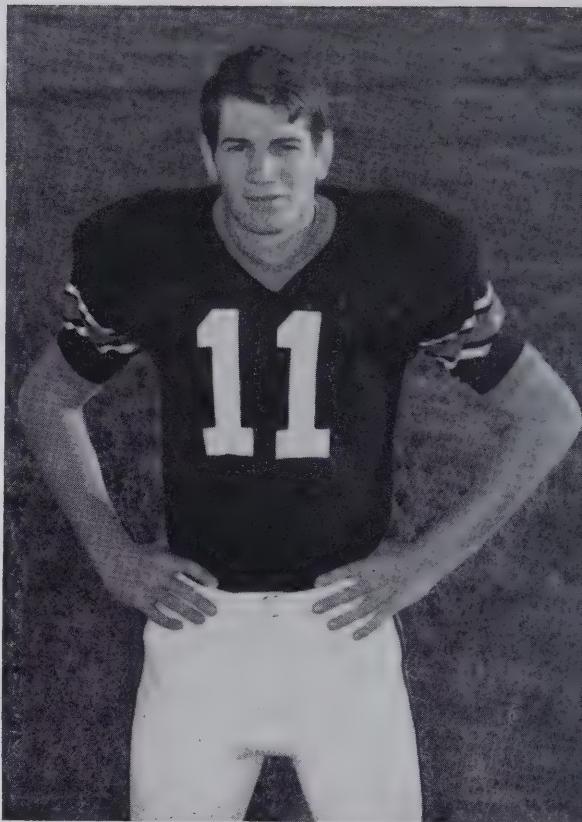

John Nixon, All-Conference end, nabs another one.

Strong Start and Fighting Spirit

The football program at New Hanover was in a new phase this year. Some juniors were kept on the junior varsity, thus gaining valuable playing experience.

Senior Larry Tootoo and junior John Nixon gained statewide recognition through their gridiron efforts. Larry Tootoo was elected to both the Eastern 4A Conference and State 4A Conference All-Star Teams. Teammate John Nixon also was elected to the Eastern 4A Conference All-Star Team, leading the Wildcats in scoring at his end position with thirty points.

In honor of New Hanover's former principal, the Wallace I. West Sportsmanship Award, bestowed upon the senior football player exhibiting outstanding sportsmanship on the gridiron, was founded by the student government. This year's team elected Harry Griffin as the best sport, thus giving him the added honor of being the first recipient of this award.

Under its new program of using selected juniors of the Junior Varsity, the Wildkittens romped over every opponent they faced this season except traditional rival, Jacksonville. Much of the credit must go to sophomore signal-caller, Clifton Herring. Leading scorer with 84 points, the free-wheeling quarterback, also passed for an additional 60 points. His favorite receiver was Zheder Barnes, the elusive end who accounted for 42 points of Herring's aerial touchdowns. Junior Bruce Cavanaugh was also outstanding on offense scoring 72 points from his halfback position. As a team, the 'Kittens averaged 31.5 points per game. A tough defensive line held the opponents to a mere 10.6 points per game. The first contested game of the season was at Jacksonville, where a tie-breaking field goal attempt fell wide in the waning seconds. The 'Kittens' biggest margin of victory was a 52-7 slaughter of the Fayetteville Bulldogs. In their last outing of the season, a 'Kitten touchdown drive aimed at tying the score, fell short because of a fumble.

Senior Jackie Jackson blasts one out of a trap.

The 1968 golf team started its season in a losing manner. Many vacancies had to be filled by newcomers because of graduation. However, in the second half of season's action, the experience began to overcome all nervousness or hurry exhibited in the first half of play, and the squad finished the season in fine fashion. Veteran standouts included Jackie Jackson, Danny Holland, and Mac McKeithan. Jackie Jackson represented New Hanover in the State 4-A Tournament in Chapel Hill.

Ability, Poise, Selfless Teamwork - Compulsory

Thorough practice, unselfish teamwork, and confident poise were trademarks of New Hanover Wildcats in their drive for state championship. En route to the state championship, the 'Cats easily swept regular season and tournament play in the Eastern 4-A conference, with only one blemish on their record. Their season included wins over tough non-conference foes South Mecklenburg, Carolina Military Academy, Winston-Salem Reynolds and a revenge victory over Burlington Williams in the regular season. Few teams seriously challenged the Wildcats' dominance of the league. A tall Fayetteville team harassed New Hanover in both confrontations, but cool poised play overcame the hustling Bulldogs. Confident play in the final seconds was also the prime factor for the 'Cats other contested win at Raleigh Broughton. The only defeat of the entire season came at the hand of Durham. A poor shooting night combined with superlative play of cager Fred Horton—gave the win to Durham.

In tournament action the poise and teamwork characteristic of the Wildcats paid the biggest dividends. In conference and state action, the 'Cats outclassed Fayetteville, Broughton, Burlington, Myers Park, and West Charlotte for the title.

Three players of the '67-'68 team were especially outstanding. Kim Huband's deft passing and clutch shooting, Mike Beale's accurate outside shooting, and John Nixon's superior rebounding and ball handling proved to be the mainstays of the team. Randy Thomas' fine defense against outstanding opposition proved to be the difference in many close games. A solid bench backed up these boys, and the reserves often helped to attain the final record of 25-1 and the goal of state champions.

Wildkitten Hoopsters Toppled Tough Opposition

Playing under the shadow of their varsity teammates, the Wildkittens received little recognition for their 10-10 season record. Under the supervision of coach Dave Campbell the 'Kittens began their '67-'68 season with a solid 65-33 defeat of South Mecklenburg. Subsequently they lost three straight to Fairmont, Wilson, and Rocky Mount. The Wilson game was a heartbreaker, the 'Kittens losing out by a slim 47-46 margin. They had pulled up from a 38-29 deficit at the end of the third quarter only to lose in the last moments of the game.

The first four games of the season seemed to give the Wildkittens some needed experience. They began to play much better, winning three straight—including a 53-51 win over the Enloe JV's and a 83-61 defeat of Southport. These first seven games set the erratic pace which the 'Kittens were to maintain throughout the season. They played in streaks—winning three, losing three, winning two, losing two—all through their schedule, to finish with an even won-lost record.

As the season progressed, though, the 'Kittens seemed to be improving steadily whether they won or lost. The usual starting team consisted of Howie Edgerton, Bill Nemargut, Dennis Allen, and Robert Inman with several players filling the fifth position from time to time. All the 'Kittens received valuable experience which will aid them to follow in the footsteps of the varsity.

Wrestling Team Shows Well in Tournament Action

Although the wrestling squad of New Hanover achieved only one victory, the '67-'68 wrestling program experienced greater depth than any previous grappler team. Their only victory was a 39-14 romp over Wilson, dropping matches with New Bern, Goldsboro, and Jacksonville. Still, many rookies gained valuable experience. Outstanding among these were Bobby LaBrecque and Russell Lee, both representing New Hanover in the state tournament along with veterans Bobby Broadfoot and Jim Howarth. This delegation of four was the largest group to qualify for the state tournament from New Hanover since the sport's beginning five years ago. The 'Cat grapplers made a fine showing in the large sectional at Jacksonville, placing a respectable eighth.

Spring Track Gains By Experience —

State finalist Charles Ostrand flings the discus.

A strong experienced spring track team represented New Hanover well in its track outings this year. The most notable characteristic of the team was the improved and strengthened field team. The weeks of patient, devoted practice and conformity to form, grace, and experience contributed to a strong field delegation, where such practices are a necessity. A strong field attack, coupled with an equally potent track attack, placed the team well in most meets it entered. Outstanding field men included Charles Ostrand, discus; Tim Durham, shotput; and Luther Jordan, high jump. Essential to team victory were the track events, where there were numerous standouts. Billy Capps excelled in the low hurdles, Jim Coates in the mile, Clyde Jordan in the 440-yard dash, Walter Best in the 220-yard dash, and Bill James in the 100-yard dash. The team placed well in the sectionals against traditional rivals Fayetteville and Burgaw.

Months of Diligent Practice Pay Off as the

Good pitching and streaks of good hitting characterized the Wildcat season. In their first four games the 'Cats scored 47 runs and allowed only 5, including a 10-3 defeat of Fayetteville. Next the 'Cats edged out a tough Wilson team 4-2. Then the Wildcats sustained their first loss at the hands of Jacksonville. Revived after the loss, they pounded Goldsboro 8-2. The following five games against Conway, Broughton, Rocky Mount, Durham, and Goldsboro were low scoring, close, defensive ball games. In this series the 'Cats dropped only one, a 2-1 loss to the Durham team on its home grounds. Following this the Wildcats over-powered Enloe, defeating them 14-2, collecting 17 hits. Suddenly, misfortune struck and the 'Cats lost two straight, to Wilson and Fayetteville. They then scored a 7-2 comeback victory over Jacksonville to capture second place in the EC4A. In the first game of the state playoffs the Wildcats succumbed to Greensboro Smith, losing 9-2.

The Wildcats had a season's record of 12-5. Mike Simmons, at .359, lead the team in hitting with Mike Wheeler and Stanly Sneeden behind him. David Thomas and David Sandlin, both lefthanders, did most of the pitching. Thomas had an 8-3 record; Sandlin was 3-1.

This year's junior varsity enjoyed a good year. En route to a 14-4 record the Wildkittens collected 137 runs and gave up only 55. They were scoreless only once, while shutting out opponents six times. Throughout most of the year the pitching and hitting were highly dependable.

The 'Kittens got off to a bad start, losing to Hallsboro 8-5. Following this they began to play good steady baseball, and put together a nine-game winning streak. During this streak the Wildkittens racked up three consecutive shutouts, over Dixon, Swansboro, and Southport. Against Wallace-Rose Hill their winning ways ended in the only really bad game the 'Kittens played all year, by an 11-0 margin of defeat. The Wildkittens' next game against Goldsboro, the only other EC4A team played, terminated in an 8-2 victory by the 'Kittens. Then they played Topsail for the third and fourth times of the season. In the first game Wilmington won 2-0. In the second game the law of averages caught up to the 'Kittens, and they lost 7-4. After a 9-0 defeat of Leland, Goldsboro gave the Wildkittens their third and final loss, 3-2. Dixon surrendered 17-0, and Leland yielded 27-3, to a powerful Wildkitten offense in the final two season contests.

One afternoon a week the Girls' Gym abounds with the noises of athletic activity. There, on Wednesdays, the Girls' Athletic Association holds its meetings. Other girls than these take physical education, but a select few have chosen to further their participation in such activities—hence, the GAA. The GAA elects officers, among them a president who is responsible for setting up a program of sports for the members to take part in. Mrs. Jean Tillett advises the girls and helps organize and teach the various group activities.

This year a girls' tennis team will represent the club in several matches with other teams. Tennis has been stressed over the past several years, and the GAA has developed a good team. During the earlier part of the year tumbling, and old standard, is taken up along with other gymnastics. Exercising and special practices help prepare the girls for these sports, as well as for such seasonal sports as the members wish to undertake. In the spring the club plans, along with softball and soccer, to do some running on the oval track behind the tennis courts. Inside the gym the high jump, a scaled-down pole vault, and volleyball have been worked on. Ping-pong is a year-round recreation for GAA members. The GAA, in sponsoring girls' athletics, introduces members to the world of sports.

Goalie Reynolds goes up in the air to intercept a would-be score.

Soccer made its appearance at New Hanover High School this fall. Although most of the team had little experience at the game, they had the desire to learn, and they learned fairly fast. Possessing a good defense throughout the year, the Wildcats had trouble on offense. In the four games leading up to the District playoffs, the Wildcats scored only one point.

With only a few weeks' practice behind them, the 'Cats took on the state champions, Camp LeJeune and beat them 1-0. In their first game of the season, both teams were tight, and the game was scoreless through three quarters. With just a couple of minutes left, Barney Lewis kicked in the winning goal. In a return match with LeJeune, the Wildcats lost on a penalty kick, 1-0. After a 4-0 loss to Fayetteville, the Wildcats began intensive practices, concentrating on scoring, but it came to no avail, as the 'Cats again lost to Fayetteville by a 4-0 margin.

In the Eastern District Tournament the Wildcats offense began to function. They defeated Durham 6-1 in the opening round play. The next game was with season rival Fayetteville. Unable to get their offense started until late in the game, the Wildcats scored only one goal, and several defensive miscues allowed Fayetteville to defeat the 'Cats, 3-1.

of shaping the unit into the organization which must perform and uphold its position as an Honor Unit of Junior Division ROTC. This at first seemed to be an impossible task, for no one really knew what to do or how to do it. To the first-years ignorance became happiness because they could only be chewed out for not learning fast enough. Then out of nowhere popped ROTC Night and a demand for faultless drill and precision. Much to the surprise of the countless prophets of doom, the Battalion "almost looked decent" that night.

Each major unit of the Battalion, the Cape Fear Rifles, and the Rifle Team had a sponsor to represent them and march with the unit commander. That one act performed the greatest morale building function in the Corps. Sponsors also had the responsibility for the distribution of sympathy at inspections with such statements as, "I think you look nice even if your brass is not shined."

Officers' Club

Members of the Officers' Club consisted of sixteen platoon leaders, four company executive officers, four company commanders, five staff officers, the battalion commander, and seven sponsors. Members of the club highlighted the school year with the annual ROTC Ball. Held in mid-December, the decorations in the Student Union centered around the Christmas theme. For the event "The Soul Six" from Wilson provided the music.

At the end of the school year, the members had a house party for Officers' Club members only.

Cdt. 1st Lt. Butch Morgan was the M.C. of the ball.

The Annual Military Ball, sponsored by the Officers' Club, is one of the ROTC highlights for the year.

Sponsors and also members of the Officers' Club: M. Murrell, L. Crossley, and M. Weaver.

NCO Club

Ranging in rank from Sergeant to Sergeant Major, the non-commissioned officers of the ROTC unit formed the NCO Club. These cadets met every week to plan some special events. In February they planned the annual ROTC hayride at Scott's Hill. In the spring the party for members only afforded the most fun.

An NCO also has his complaints as L. Dawkins, S. Holland, R. Epps or D. Sanderson can attest.

Rifle Team

The Rifle Team is captained by Philip Johnson and sponsored by Mary Murrell.

Consisting of six expert shooters, the Rifle Team represented New Hanover High School at marksmanship meets at such places as Carolina Military Academy and North Carolina State University.

Using twenty-two caliber match rifles, the members practice daily in the afternoon on the ROTC firing range.

Cdt. Cpt. Philip E. Johnson led the Rifle Team with Honorary Cdt. Cpt. Mary Murrell as sponsor. Other members of the competitive team consisted of Cdt. Lt. Col. David C. Sessoms, Cdt. Cpt. David B. James, and Cdt. SSgt. Michael W. Eason.

David Sessoms, Philip Johnson, and David James put their weapons up after a long practice.

Cape Fear Rifles

This year the Cape Fear Rifles consisted of twenty-eight cadets. These cadets, led by Cdt. SFC James H. Carter and sponsored by Honorary Cdt. Cpt. Wilma Bosso, represented New Hanover High School in parades at Burgaw, Whiteville, Wallace, White Lake, and Wilmington. Cdt. SSgt. Lloyd W. Dawkins acted as executive officer with the soloist as Cdt. SFC Walter N. Glover. Worn on the left shoulder, an orange and black cord distinguished the Cape Fear Rifle members.

Comprised of two units, the Color Guards carried out its own duties as well as the training of cadets for next year. The MT-II cadets served to carry the Colors in parades with the Cape Fear Rifles. Also the MT-I unit trained as next year's Parades Color Guard and performed at the flag raising ceremony on Mondays and Fridays, also marched at battalion formations on Monday. A white cord distinguished the members from other cadets.

Marching in the Christmas Parade was one of the Cape Fear Rifles activities.

Administration and Faculty

Mr. John Scott, principal, checks on a boisterous class.

Mrs. Barbara Stanley, senior guidance counselor; and Mrs. Evelyn Doughty, sophomore and junior guidance counselor; discuss a student's college potential.

Mr. Fred Capps, dean of boys, checks in for the morning.

Mr. James Potter, associate principal, questions Wayne Klander's authorized presence in the hall.

Proficient Administrative Staff Produces Harmony

Mr. John Scott, principal and head administrator, coordinated the professional staff. He supervised instruction and curriculum for students and planned with the student government. His approval is required for any experimental ideas of both students and teachers.

Mr. James Potter, associate principal, acted as principal in the absence of Mr. Scott. His major tasks covered discipline, publicity for the school, and schedule changes for juniors. Mr. Potter assisted Mr. Scott in formulating and enforcing school policies and regulations.

Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, registrar, superintended SAT and made schedule changes official. Aided by six assistants, she also supervised the honor roll, enrolled new students, and handled transcripts.

Mrs. Joyce Weathers, dean of girls, and Mr. Fred Capps, dean of boys, had the duty of disciplining students. They checked absentees, authorized admission slips which homeroom teachers could not handle, dealt with transfer students and dropouts, and received and delivered emergency messages to students.

Mrs. Evelyn Doughty, sophomore and junior guidance counselor, and Mrs. Barbara Stanley, senior guidance counselor, talked with students concerning their vocational and educational plans and helped them decide on suitable choices. Writing college and scholarship recommendations; giving personal counsel to potential dropouts; and keeping a current file of college, business school, technical institute, and special school catalogues were part of their tasks. The guidance counselors also kept students informed of available scholarships.

The camera captures Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, registrar, in a moment of silent admiration of the carefree students.

Assistants

Maintaining utmost efficiency in our school is the major task of the assistants.

Mrs. Christine Boone, school nurse, sees a thousand patients, both students and teachers, each month. Inquiring about hospitalized persons, handling school insurance, and occasionally taking ill students home are among her duties.

In addition to office clerk, Mrs. Lois Holland is literally bookkeeper of the school's supply room. Aided by one assistant, she handles class ring accounts, maintains the lost and found department, orders new books and teachers' supplies, and keeps records of attendance.

Mrs. C. J. Cowell, secretary, handles all correspondence for Mr. Scott. She records telephone calls, opens mail, sells stamps to teachers, and even collects money from the office drink machine. Helped by nine assistants, Mrs. Cowell also edits and distributes the daily bulletin and memoranda to teachers. Making up the school calendar and all filing are the secretary's duties.

Mrs. Agnes Atkinson, cafeteria manager, supervises the preparation and serving of lunch daily. Assisted by twenty persons, she buys food for the cafeteria and soda shop; makes out the payroll, invoices, daily sales reports, and milk reports; and deposits cafeteria funds.

Aided by sixteen assistants, Mr. Henry Vann, custodian, maintains a well organized system of janitorial services. Students often see him or a member of his staff repairing pencil sharpeners, cleaning blackboards, changing a light bulb, or preparing for a special event in Brogden Hall.

Glynda Nelson, student bus driver, tides up her bus.

Mrs. C. J. Cowell, secretary, records a list of supplies for Mrs. Lois Holland, clerk.

Miss Ruth Galloway, Geometry, shows an interesting project to Miss Octavia Smith, Algebra II.

Reference Material Encourages Independent Study

Miss Eloise Scott, Head of the Math Department, Advanced Algebra, hands out testpapers to seniors Larry Tootoo and Zegary Branch.

Acquiring four new teachers this year, the math department's staff reached a total of thirteen. Mr. Brunjes (Advanced Algebra), Mr. Tuttle (Consumer Math), Mr. Todd (Consumer Math and Business Math), and Mr. Brady (Algebra I and Consumer Math) helped fellow faculty members teach a sum of forty-five classes. The courses offered by the math department include Consumer Math, Business Math, Algebra I, Algebra II, Unified Geometry, Advanced Algebra, Trigonometry, and Advanced Math.

Because of this varied curriculum, approximately 1,100 students, over one-half of the student body, enrolled in math courses this year.

To supplement textbooks the department added seventy-five up to date books to its reference library. Students used these books freely during class or checked them out overnight. The purpose of these reference books was twofold. First, students had the advantage of several different approaches to the same types of exercises. Secondly, by reading different authors, students broadened their knowledge of mathematical terms, symbols, and concepts. Also the available reference material stimulated students to study independently.

Math, the science of numbers, helps students to become logical and exact thinkers, and to understand better the principles of our universe.

Mr. Jan Brady, Consumer Math, Algebra I, and Mr. Robert Todd, Business Math, Consumer Math, look on as Junior May Ann Best calls the roll.

Mrs. Louise Turner, Geometry, explains a difficult proof to sophomore Ellen Stanley.

Mrs. Nancy Horton, Advanced Algebra, Trigonometry, Business Math, gives Colonel William King, Algebra I, and Ginger King a ride home.

Mrs. Estelle LeGwin, Chemistry, and Miss Katherine Emmart, Chemistry, put their scientific knowledge to a practical use.

Mr. Dave Campbell, Biology, Physical Science, explains the techniques of heart transplantation to Mr. John Henry Brunjes, Advanced Algebra, Physics.

Mr. Thomas Tuttle, Biology, introduces Charley to the class.

Research Science Course Unique in State

Experimenting with a modern approach to education, the Science Department introduced a highly advanced independent study course to its curriculum. Research Science, the only course of this type in the state, allowed the individual student to conduct a detailed experiment in the area of his own choosing. The cooperation of various county facilities proved to be a key factor in the success of this course.

Approximately one half of the student body acquired a knowledge of basic scientific principles in seven physical science, fifteen biology I, ten chemistry, five advanced biology, one research science, and three physics classes. Teachers new to the staff this year included Mr. John Henry Brunjes, physics, Mrs. Betty Clark, physical science, and Mr. Dave Campbell, biology and physical science. In the way of equipment, the department received fifteen new microscopes, one tape recorder, record player, and overhead projector. It also added a total of fifty up-to-date reference books to its supplementary library.

The development of the chicken egg is the topic of discussion by Mr. Donald Dickens, Biology, and Mrs. Emily Laughlin, Biology, Advanced Biology.

Mrs. Dell Borneman, Head of Science Department, Advanced Biology, Chemistry, conducts a seminar with Research Science students.

Business Department Simulates Office Practice

The Business Department received an abundance of new equipment this year. Printing and rotary calculators, used for the first time in the business classes, made mathematical work less time-consuming. A more modern and efficient mimeograph machine aided teachers as well as students.

An assortment of books dealing with typing, basic business and bookkeeping brought the classes up to date with the most modern techniques.

Several teachers attended the Annual Business Education Conference in Greensboro. Two guest speakers discussed the most recent trends in business. After the lectures various discussion leaders led debates on the strengths and weaknesses of the current system.

The purpose of Business Education is to teach a practical application of the skills learned in class. This year thirteen business students worked in the various departments of the school ranging from guidance to cafeteria assistants. Students thus working under actual conditions learned the basics of self-discipline and courtesy.

Spending a whole day in the classrooms, the telephone company demonstrated the correct methods of answering a phone. Special teletrainer equipment, plus film and slides, serves further to enlighten the students.

Mrs. Norma Grubbs, Typing I, II, and Mrs. Virginia Smith, Shorthand I, Typing I, review the selection of typing rhythm records for their classes.

Mrs. Hood, Office Practice, Typing II, gives advice on a typing problem to Sheryl Mincey.

Mrs. Maybell Courie (left), Bookkeeping I, II, Typing I, explains to Deane Blanton some of the fine points of bookkeeping.

Mrs. Mintz, Basic Business, Latin II, Personal Typing, settles down to one of her many tasks.

Language Arts Promotes Understanding Between Nations

Mr. Norman Wood, Mrs. Jean Tillitt, and Miss Joan Warner joined the Language Arts Department this year. Mrs. Tillitt, who taught French several years ago, has found on her return to language arts that the new systems of teaching are challenging and interesting.

This year in the Language Arts Department students taking French IV studied according to their own rate of learning in the new independent study period. Mrs. West and Miss Warner alternately taught the same class of eight students. After reading one hundred pages in French on the topic of their choice, the members of the class prepared an oral presentation on that subject. Their exam consisted of an hour's written work on their topic.

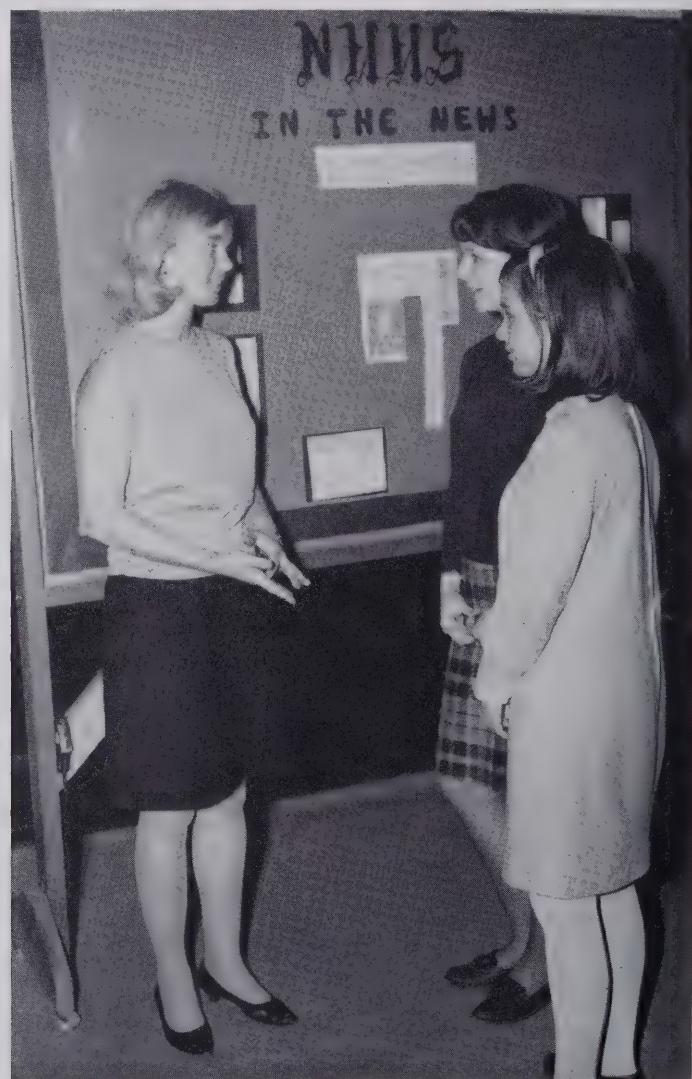

In January seven teachers attended the State Language Conference in Durham. Several nationally known speakers stressed the importance of foreign language training for American Youth.

Mrs. Maynard, Spanish II, IV, and student Chris Correale perfect the pronunciation of a difficult word.

Mrs. Ruth Warren, Government, Mr. Jay King, Sociology, Economics, and Mr. Fitzhugh Fennell, U. S. History, discuss controversial current issues.

Social Studies Promote Wider Understanding

Social Studies Courses, taught by ten instructors, provided a wide and comprehensive study of past and present ways of life to the students at NHHS. The Social Studies Department acquired four new overhead projectors this year. These enabled students to take more effective notes. Transparencies, used in the machines project onto a screen. Teachers make the transparencies by hand or by using the new Thermofax machines. A series of lectures sponsored by the Social Studies Department enabled the student to understand more about Southeast Asia. The National Security Seminar attracted many students and parents. Two government classes from NHHS had the privilege of going to this seminar and learning about the utilization of community resources. Three colonels came and spoke several afternoons for those students at New Hanover who were unable to attend the lectures during their class time. This year the department hosted many noted speakers. Mr. Otto Pridgen, head of elections in Wilmington, came and spoke to the students on the new loose-leaf voting machines. Government classes also heard Mr. A. C. Beale and Mr. Louis T. Poisson, heads of the local Democratic and Republican parties. Ideas expressed in the lectures gave the classes an insight as to the differences and similarities of the political parties in the city.

Mr. William Bergeron, Head of Social Studies Department, Government, helps students understand a government assignment.

Mrs. Jean Doorley, U. S. History, and Mr. James Meadows, U. S. History and Government, observe some historical points of interest with students Monica Felton and Jim Metts.

Mr. George Hardee, U. S. History, and Mr. William Hardee, Government, show a little test of strength as some fans look on.

Mr. Neil Stout, U. S. History and Student Union Activities, and Mr. Richard Feagin, Government and Sociology, look on as students are being tested.

Sports Attempt to Develop One's Skills

Headed by Mrs. Jean Tillitt, girls' physical education, and by Jasper Davis, the Wildcat football coach, four hundred and fifty students worked to develop skills in certain fields. This year each boy in the department participated in baseball, wrestling, track, weight-lifting, and handball. North Carolina Physical Fitness tests given to each student determined if he were in good physical condition. Also, the agility tests challenged the students' power of moving quickly and lightly. The girls, through various, supervised exercises, learned physical fitness and sportsmanship. A few of the fields in which the girls competed included badminton, volleyball, tennis, soccer, and ping-pong. Always there, Mrs. Tillitt demonstrated to the girls the fine points of tumbling, the correct and incorrect techniques of hitting a tennis ball, and skillful art in shooting a basketball. The Girls' Athletic Association, an organization sponsored by the Girls' Physical Education Department is open for membership to any girl at New Hanover. Meeting on Wednesday afternoons, each girl practiced and worked on her one particular skill in which she excelled. On many Saturdays the organization met and went on hikes and picnics. Throughout the year parties were held.

Coach Jasper Davis, Physical Education, demonstrates to Alton Watkins the techniques of handball.

Mrs. Jean Tillitt, Physical Education and French I, prepares to challenge one of her students in a game of tennis.

Mrs. Jane Price, Music, Monica Felton, and Royce Sweatman teach the alma mater to Mrs. Horton's senior homeroom.

Cultural Arts Exhibit Creativity

Mrs. Nila Chamberlain, Drama, Speech, English III, calls the roll before beginning her drama class.

Through creativity and self-expression approximately two hundred students found themselves probing into a remarkably new world. The National Thespians presented Taming of the Shrew in February after many long, hard hours of preparation. In an effort to stimulate an interest in music, the New Hanover High School Band hosted a Christmas concert. Their music symbolized the real spirit of Christmas. The band made a trip to the East Carolina Music Clinic in Greenville. Throughout the year select groups of the vocal music department gave performances for the student body and for the Kiwanis Club. The Hanover Singers appeared on the two local television stations.

Mr. William McAdams, Music Theory, Band, Business Math, gives students Wayne Greer and Alan Fryar extra help after class.

County Vocational Department Ranks Third in State

Several revolutionary changes took place in the vocational department this year. For the first time NHHS students studied industry and trades at a localized vocational center. The George H. West Vocational Center consolidated the industry and trades programs of each of the three county high schools. It is the first center of this type in the state. The new system has two main advantages. First, it prevents needless duplication of courses and equipment in each school; secondly, the program provides students with a widely enlarged vocational curriculum from which to choose.

The George H. West Vocational center boasted the third largest vocational staff and student enrollment in North Carolina. With the addition of Mr. Wooten and Mr. Myer a total of twenty-one teachers comprised the faculty. Approximately 1,100 students received training in the areas of introductory industrial training, industrial cooperative training, mechanics, construction, electronics, service occupations, and metals.

One of the most recent additions is the aerospace industry course. In this students combined classroom study with actual flight training. This course is the first such course in the nation offered in coordination with a county vocational system. Surprisingly, nearly one-third of the students enrolled in aerospace industry were girls. Other courses added to the curriculum this year include garment manufacturing, tailoring and commercial cooking.

Explaining the controls of a new airplane, Mr. Kenneth Wooten, Aeronautics, answers the students' queries.

Mr. Robert Pennington, Machine Shop I, II, looks on as a student operates the lathe.

Mr. David Stillman, Drafting II and Mr. George Garrett, Drafting I, watch Mike Russ as he works on his mid-term exam drawing.

Mr. Clifton Long, Internal Combustion Engineers I, II, instructs Gene Cole and Freddy Beaulieu in the maintenance of an airplane engine.

Mr. Robert Pickler, Introduction to Electronics, Electrical Installation, and Mr. Norman Wood, Radio and TV Service, wonder if this television can really be fixed.

Frances Helms applies for a job as secretary.

Mr. Worth Potter, Distributive Education, reviews some literature on the Distributive Education program.

Mr. Thompson, Industrial Cooperative Training, checks on the progress of a working student.

DE and ICT Teach The Dignity of Work

This year over one-third of the students taking Industrial Cooperative Training planned to go into some form of medicine. Thus the program aimed basically at those planning careers as nurses, doctors, lab technicians and other similar occupations. Nine students from Mr. Thompson's classes worked part time at New Hanover Memorial Hospital.

Although as many as two hundred students applied for admission to the I.C.T. classes, only twenty-five or thirty were actually accepted. In the classes students learned general information on the subject of their choice, while speakers representative of various occupations answered individual questions.

Mr. Worth Potter, Jr., who previously taught at Lake Forest Junior High School, is the Distributive Education coordinator this year. Besides the regular classroom activities, his duties included following the progress of students performing on the job and searching continually for new training stations.

This year forty students trained for a total of eighteen different careers dealing with the sale of merchandise.

Edex Aids Drivers

During three periods a day, sixty-five students acquainted themselves with Driver's Education precepts and skills. Thirty-six hours in the classroom preceded eighteen hours in the car—twelve of observation and six of actual driving experience.

An edex, owned by the county, headed the list of new department equipment and created interest for the students. All the high schools used the machine, which was leased to New Hanover High School for twenty days, on a circulatory basis. Automatically serving as teacher, the mechanism consisted of a programmed tape recorder and films or film strips. Each student had at his desk a selector box. When a problem appeared on the screen, he chose the correct answer and locked it in. The results were then recorded by percentage on the teacher's master machine.

When students completed their practical training in the car, they returned to their study halls.

Mr. William Mangum, Driver's Education, surprises a somnolent student.

Alec Fonvielle, Linda Lee, and Ken McGee review their Driver's Education manuals in preparation for their examination.

Mrs. Betty Clark, Developmental Reading, Physical Science, helps Terry Hammond and Rosalind Lipsius determine the number of words they can read per minute.

Mrs. Helen Younger, English II, good naturedly his skill in typing exams.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lane, English IV, Journalism I, II, shows some old issues of the Wildcat to Mrs. Martha Wofford, U. S. History, English III.

By English Department

Singing the "Doxology" in a Puritan worship service and listening to English ballads bring literature to life for students as music becomes an important teaching method for English instructors.

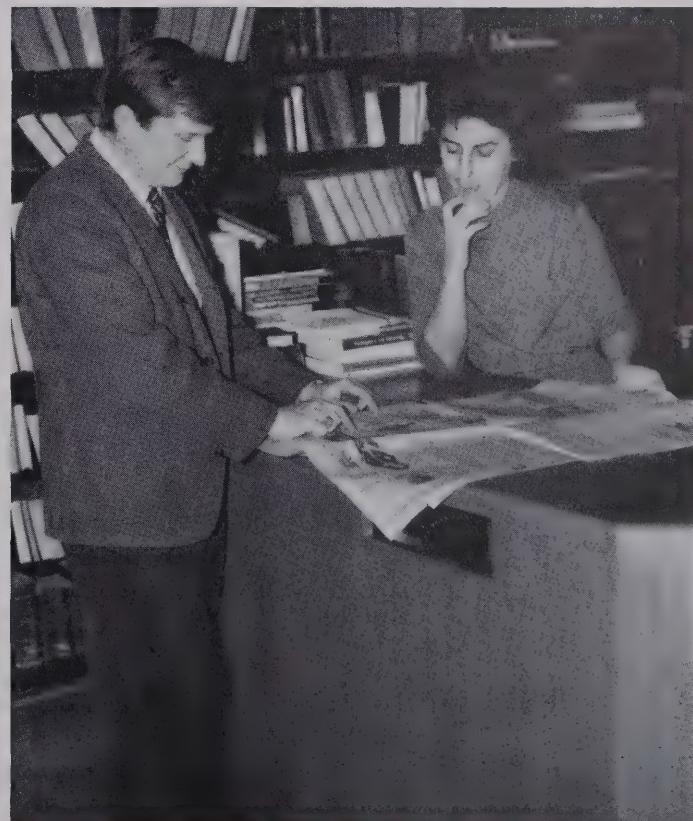

To supplement standard texts, three levels of literature books are available. Tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades have access to Exploring Life through Literature, Accent U. S. A., and England and the World, respectively. Students and teachers may choose from books of poetry by such authors as Carl Sandburg and also acquired by the department was a tape recorder and overhead projector.

The independent study program, open to seniors, adopted a new way of selecting members. This year interested students wrote letters of application to Miss Frances Formy-Duval, department head. Two of the six girls participating also attend their regular English classes.

To encourage students to use their creative talents, the department directs two creative writing contests—the Jesse Rehder High School Poetry Contest, sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the Herbert Codington Creative Writing Contest, sponsored by the Wilmington Lion's Club.

Mr. Robert Hudson and Mrs. Cecilia Alderman began practice-teaching second semester, adding their talents to those of the twenty-one regular English teachers.

Mr. John Redwine, English II, IV, calls an interesting article to the attention of Mrs. Diane Burton, English IV.

Mr. Richard Henderson, English II, and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, English III, IV, discuss a grammar exercise.

New Supplementary Books Aid Study of Literature

Jerry Lane receives an admission slip from Mrs. Ruth McDonald, English III, Business Math, during home-room.

Miss Helen Dobson, English II, III, Journalism III, and Mrs. Eugenia Jones, English III, display their hobbies of knitting and needlepoint during their free period.

Miss Marjorie Beaufort, Humanities IV, English IV, relaxes between classes by playing the piano; while Miss Anne Cammer, Economics, Humanities II, looks over some sheet music.

Linda McDaniel recites English memory lines to Mrs. Margaret Geary, English IV, Humanities III.

Humanities, Special Education Meet Varied Needs

This year, three faculty members directed the combined English and history courses known as humanities, a correlation of the arts and sciences which studied man's total image by developing such themes as love, ambition, and war. Classes met for two hours daily as students participated in plays and other group and individual activities in order to study man in all his relationships.

English III and world history were combined in sophomore humanities while juniors studied American history and literature. Government and English literature constituted the program for seniors.

Special Education classes at NHHS offer the most advanced level of this work in New Hanover county. Three teachers worked with a total of forty-two students in various academic subjects. Classes in this curriculum were not self contained. Pupils studied home economics under Mrs. Stella Honeycutt, mathematics and science under Mrs. Sara Bagby, and English and history under Mrs. Margaret Bond. The department aided in finding jobs for students after their training was complete.

Mrs. Stella Honeycutt, Mrs. Margaret Bond, and Mrs. Sara Bagby, Special Education, look over the new fashion magazines used by the home economics classes.

Various Religions Studied By Bible Classes

A variety of supplementary books aided Bible students in their search to understand the scriptures. The Pictorial Bible Dictionary and The Popular and Critical Encyclopedia gave insight to difficult passages while Baker's Atlas and The Geography of the Bible pinpointed localities in the Holy Land. Other volumes in the department's library included devotional selections, biographies, and Christian fiction.

Miss Ruth Spence, Bible instructor, used films, slides, and panel discussions as methods to vary class routine. Bible I students delved into the Old Testament up to the United Kingdom era, then began study of the life of Christ and the early church. Second-year Bible students employed group work in their study of the remaining sections of the Old and New Testaments. Paul's missionary work and letters to the different churches received much attention.

Study of other religions also occupies a part of the Bible student's education. This year Rabbi Tokayer spoke to classes on Jewish holidays, customs, and worship services.

Miss Ruth Spence, Bible I, II, holds the Key Club Award of the Month trophy given to the Bible club.

Library Purchases Automatic Card Machine

Under the supervision of two librarians, the library played a vital role in life at NHHS. This year the number of books increased by eighteen hundred. Most of these books arrived with completed catalogue cards and pockets. Librarians and assistants used room 321 as a workroom where new books were stored before they were put into circulation.

An automatic card machine became the newest addition to the library's facilities. Each student received a library card through his English class.

Art Classes Study Contemporary Works

"What is that?" was the question heard daily by Art III students as they worked at their abstract and non-objective oil paintings. NHHS art classes now followed the trend of contemporary art in all its phases.

Art teacher Miss Moneen Keklak used films to present expressionist, non-objective, and surrealistic art to her students. The history of art from prehistoric man through the twentieth century provided the basis necessary for students to gain a concept of "modern art." Students also watched art programs on closed circuit television.

Magazine covers, fabric designs, and business trademarks are some of the topics studied in commercial art. Art I and II students drew patterns for textiles used in materials for wallpaper, house furnishings, and clothes.

All art classes began by painting inanimate objects. Still life subjects stressed the importance of drawing from real life and taught lines, volume, and shading. Media used for these are water colors and pen and ink.

NHHS senior Terry King won first prize this year in the annual Camellia show poster competition. All high school students were eligible.

Home Economics Prepares Students for All Vocations

A new flannel board aids Mrs. Shirley Glover, Home Economics II, Foods, Clothing, and Mrs. Jean Gornto, Home Economics I, III, Clothing, Family Relations, in demonstrating the proper way to set a table.

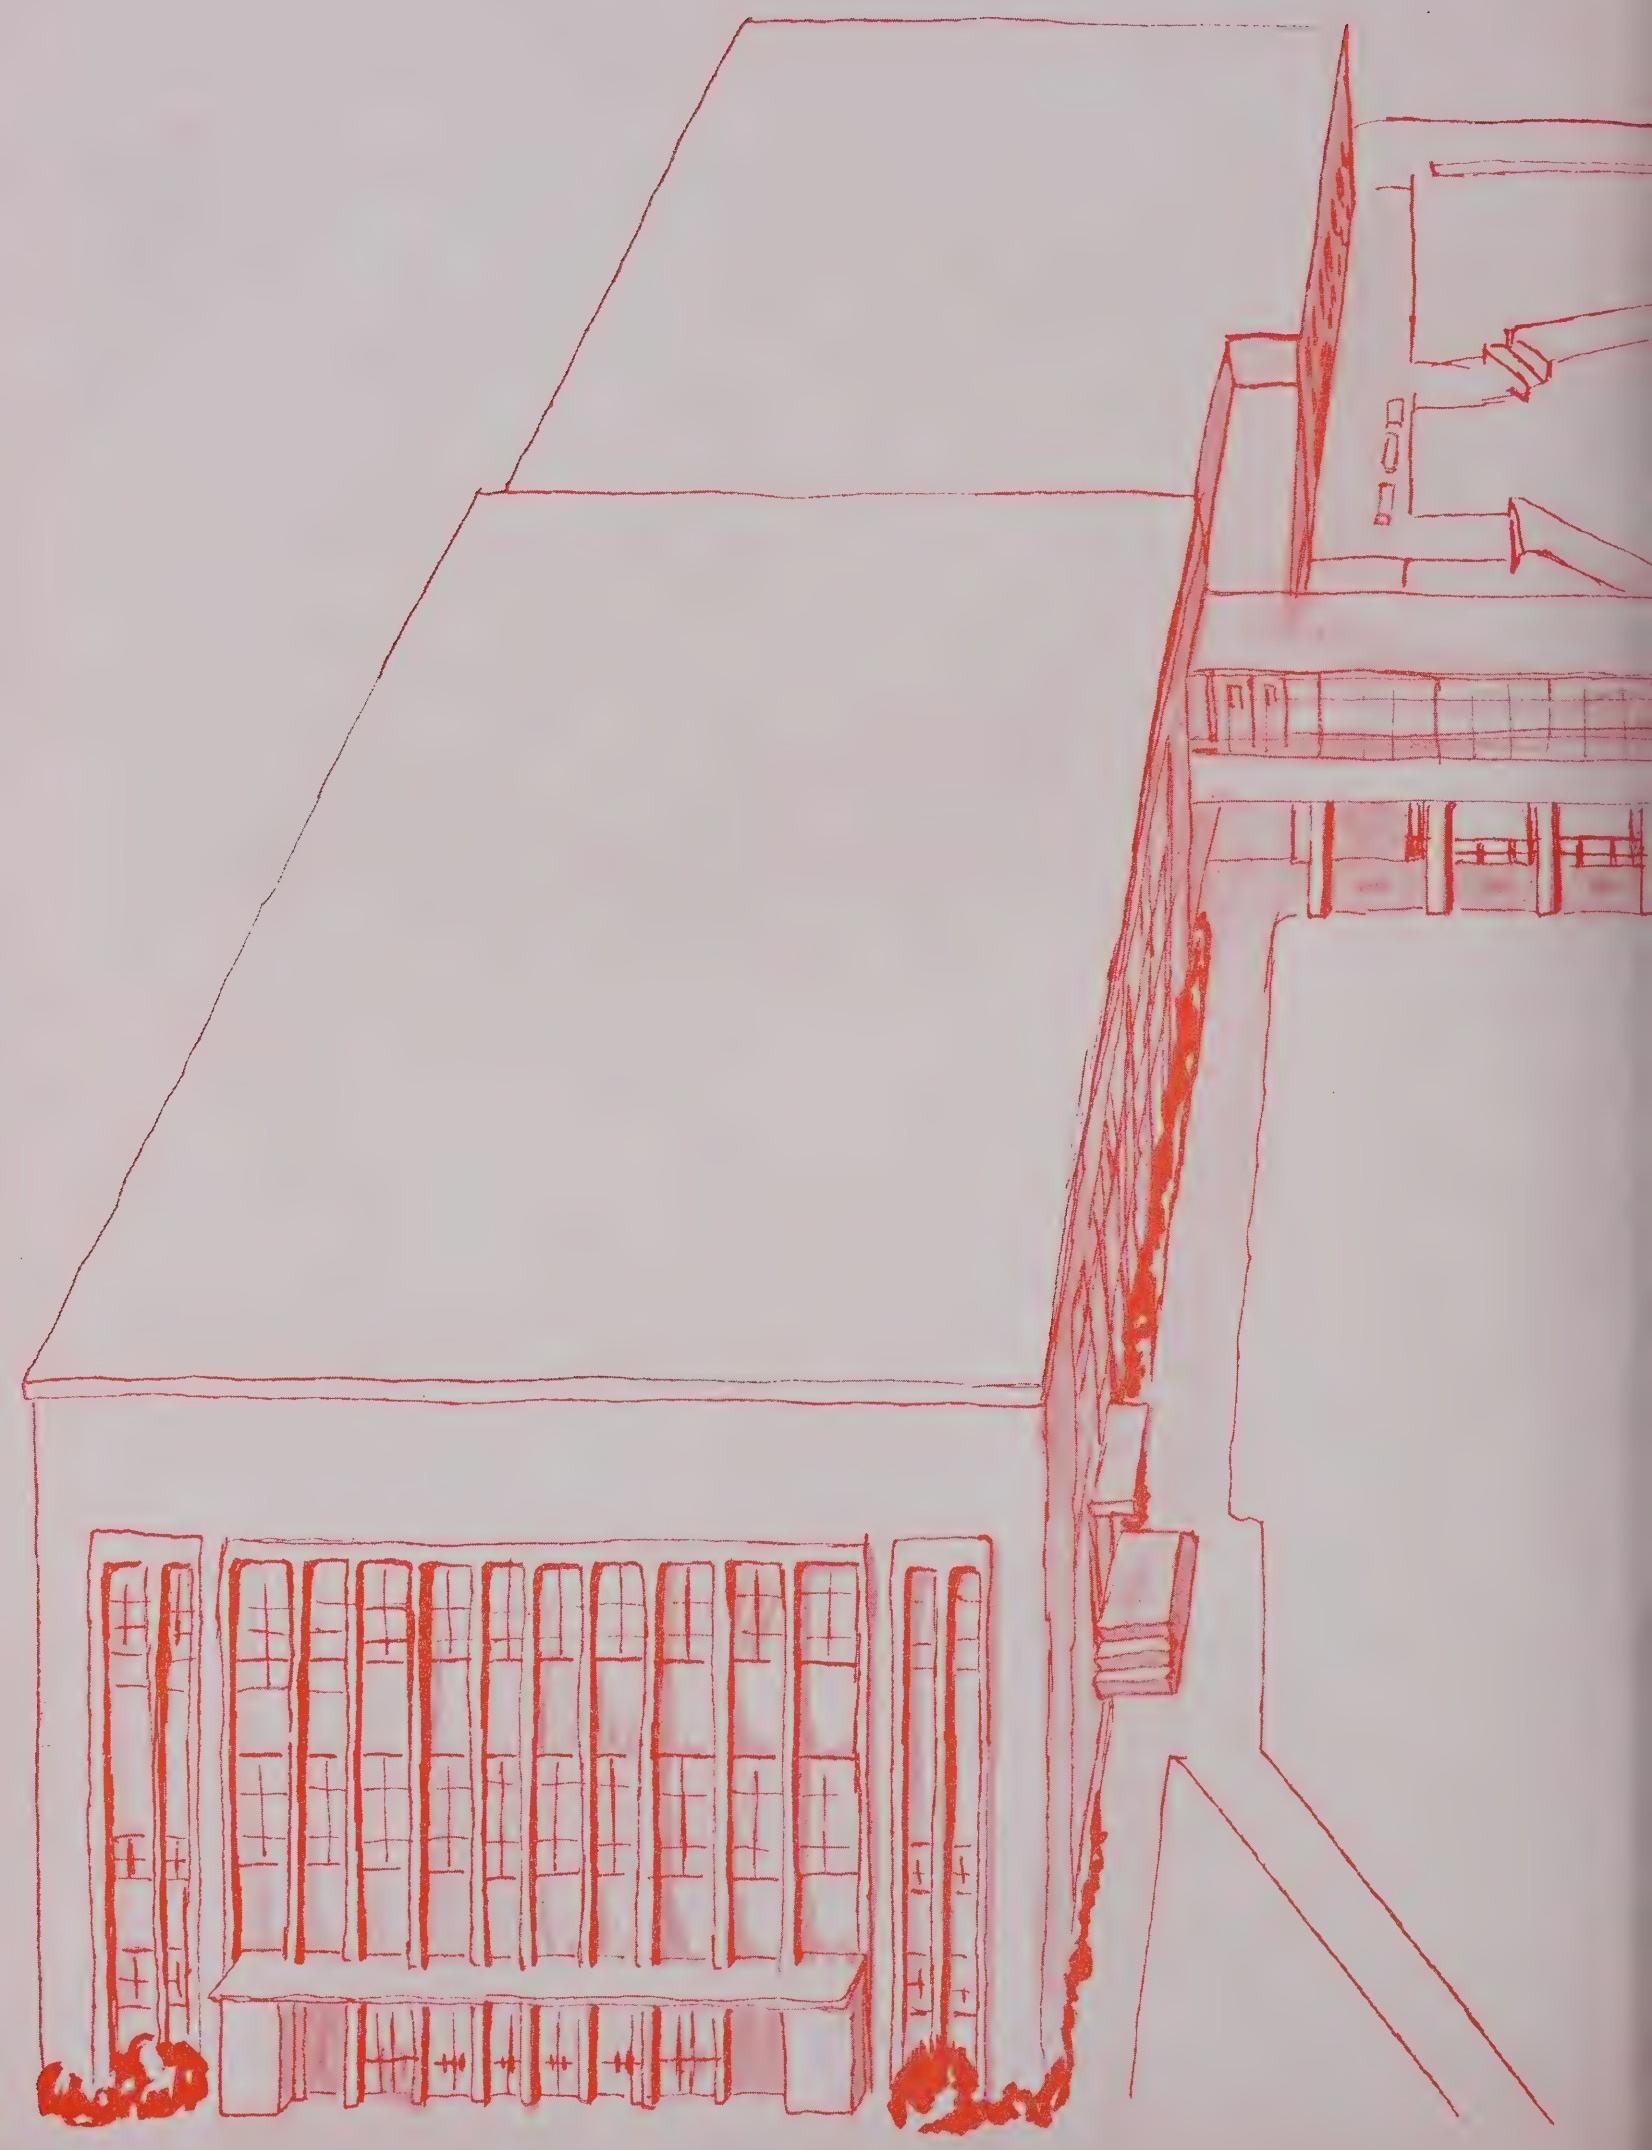

Home Economics I, II, and III, child care aid, clothing, foods, and family relations were the courses offered this year by the Home Economics Department to two hundred thirty-eight members of the student body.

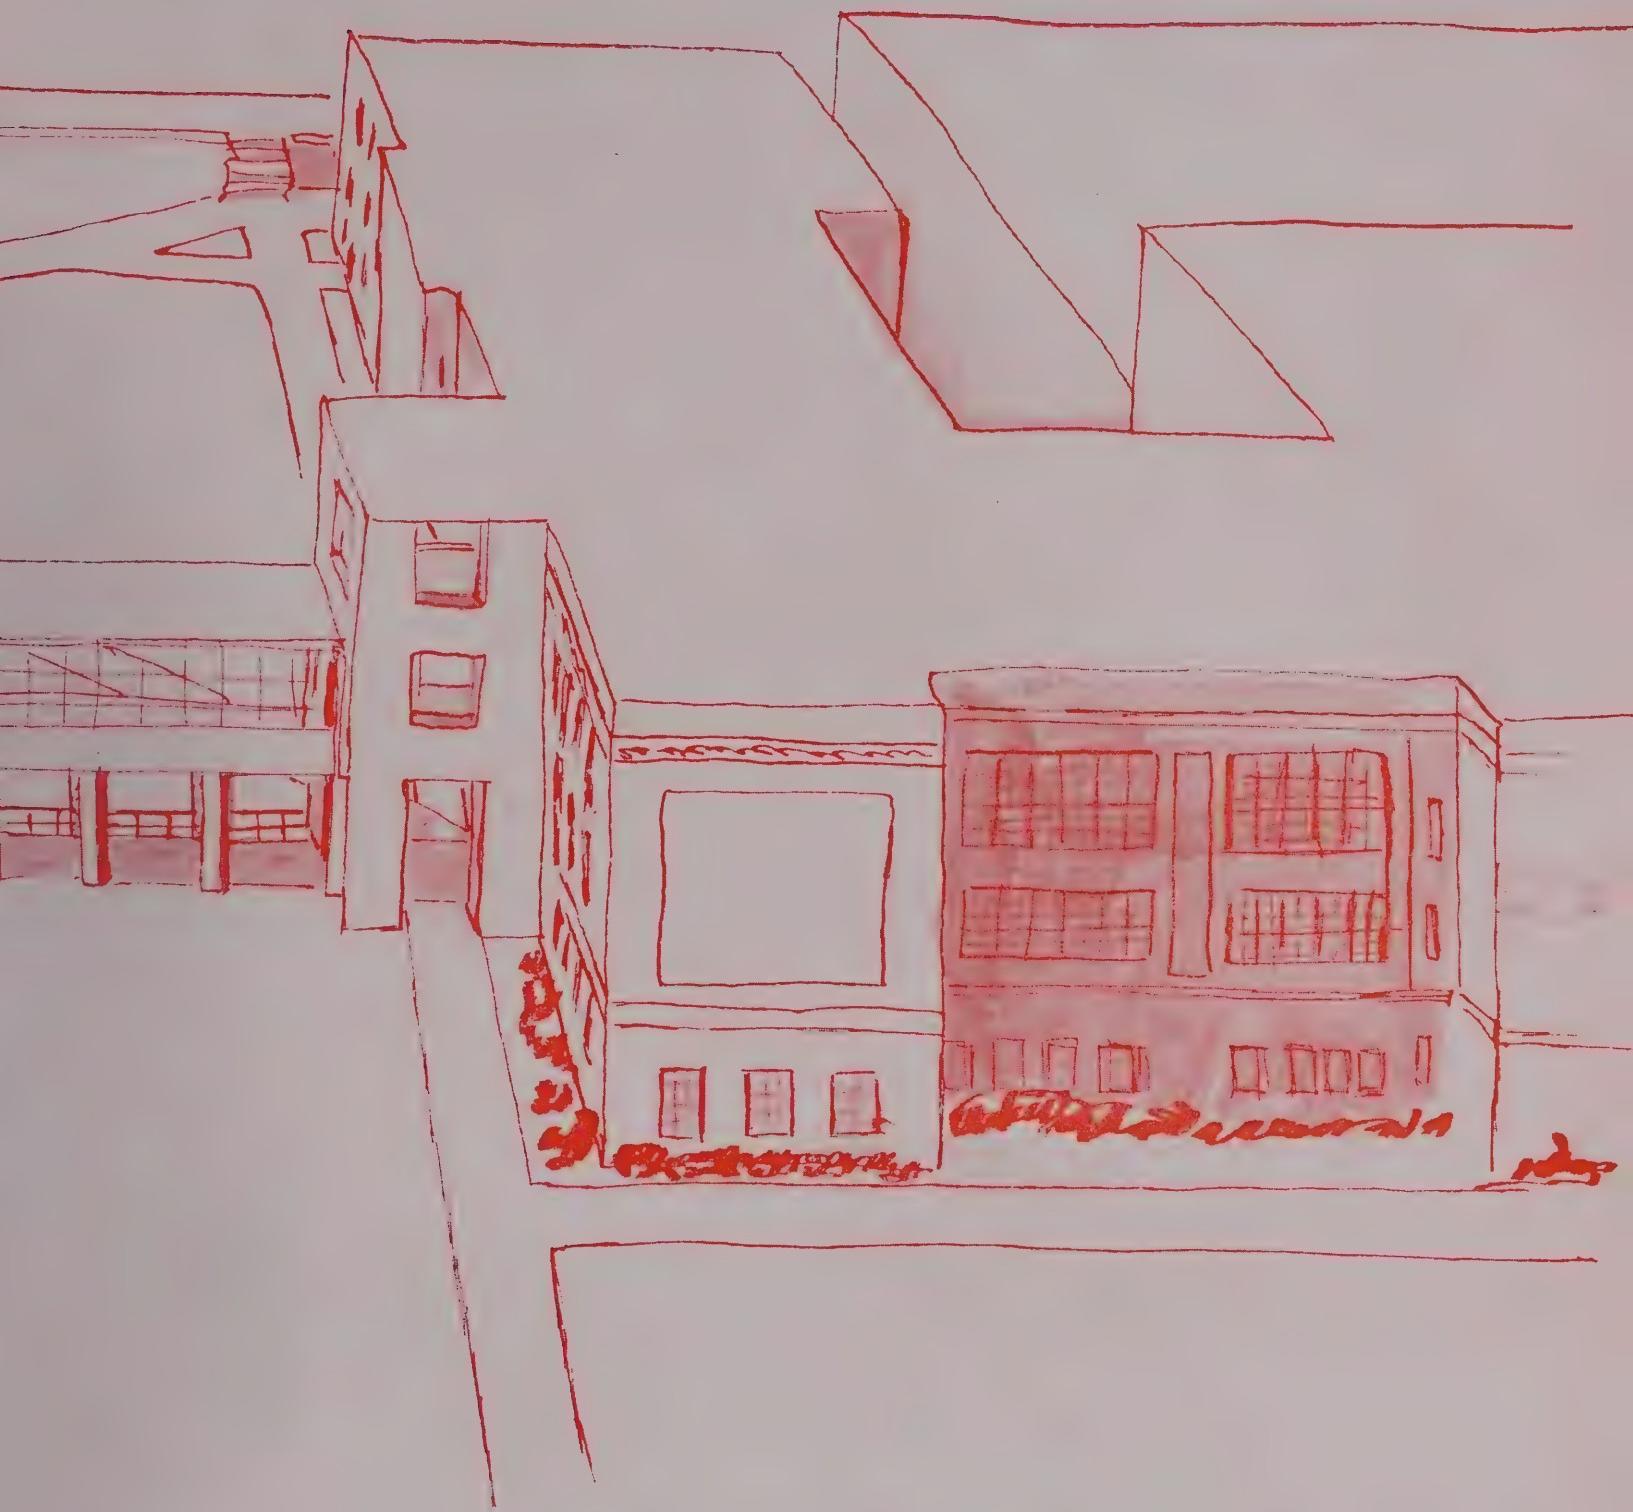

Careers in Home Economics, a new unit studied this year, acquainted students with the areas of work related to that field.

Mr. Robert Boone, a Wilmington banker, presented a program to classes studying consumer economics. The girls learned the advantages of saving and the best ways to budget and spend their money. This is also a new unit designed to teach money management.

Child Care Aid class, an occupational course, helps to prepare its members for a career which involves handling or dealing with children. The class consisted of twelve to fifteen girls and featured a follow-up study on each participant in the career she chose to pursue.

Mrs. Jean Gornto, new to the department this year, taught one class in family relations. This semester course covers the main topics of careers and guidance, marriage and family responsibility, clothing and other family needs, and consumer economics. Some teaching methods used in this course are class study, outside speakers, and resource materials.

President Walter Futch, Secretary Ellen Stanley, and Vice-President Woody Connette develop executive skill as sophomore class officers.

Sophomores

For many sophomores, the first year at New Hanover High turns dreams into realities.

New faces, new classes, and a new curriculum—all are strange to the tenth-graders. After growing accustomed to their new environment the sophomores settle into positions of rank and responsibility. This year for the first time many sophomores have developed to capacity their school spirit, which they proved through participation in student government activities and memberships in various clubs.

As quickly as it came, the sophomore year ends. No longer novices, these students anxiously await their junior year and the challenge of full time study and activity.

Juniors, no longer bewildered by the perplexity of high school life, seek to reach higher scholastic ability and develop their outlooks on life by participating in all phases of school activities. They gain recognition by their support of school clubs, athletic events, student government and educational programs. Juniors repeatedly face new and trying experiences—the challenge of the PSAT, the responsibility of the Junior-Senior, prowess of rival athletic teams, and the demand to provide outstanding service in student government. Many who excel as leaders become members of the National Honor Society. Receiving the class ring in May is the highlight of the year. It is then the junior knows that he has made that final step and can look forward to a successful senior year.

Seniors

Inherited privileges, earned esteem, and offered independence highlight these most important nine months. Tempering these "pluses," however, are the exhaustive hours spent researching and developing the term paper, the never-ending three hours of the SAT, and the unsure tears and smiles of graduation night. Poised and ambitious despite inexperience, the senior prepares at last to enter an expanding, growing world. Opportunities in this broadening life are varied, almost unlimited. College, service, or career—these prospects rise searchingly before all seniors; decisions must now be finalized which will determine the success or failure of a young life. Each senior faces the choices, thus entering young adulthood and meeting new responsibilities. In this last year of high school, seniors file scores of memories—memories of rushed themes, laughing voices, spitballs and rubberbands; of a wall of students moving down a packed hall; and of the quiet, contemplative, fleeting second caught when the senior's eye hesitatingly meets another's across the aisle on graduation night.

This golden year
Flees on victorious wings.
Infinite growth
Of one's whole being
Takes form to house the soul.
A new dimension of life,
It is but a beginning.
